Asks $30,000 More for Sewage Plant

TURNER SAYS CITY'S NEEDS CAN'T BE MET

Declares Equipment Designed For City of 45,000 Fails to Meet Present Demands.

OFFICIALS STUDY REPORT

Superintendent Says Digestor Needed Immediately to Give Complete Treatment.

A report from Superintendent James R. Turner declaring that Mansfield's sewage treatment works is inadequate for present needs and requires additional equipment immediately costing $30,000, was being studied today by city officials.

Turner's report disclosed that the three-year-old unit lacked the equipment to properly treat all the sewage entering the plant, originally designed for a city of 45,000 population.

The treatment works was opened for service in March 1937 and had been built at the cost of $831,000. During that period there have been a series of charges and complaints that the plant has not functioned to the best efficiency.

Turner's latest complaint laid before Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton in a two-page report dealing with suggested changes in equipment and personnel points out a need for addition digestion equipment to expand the capacity of the treatment process.

The superintendent said he regarded the problem of bringing the plant up to capacity as "paramount" and recommended the installation of an additional digestor as recommended by Floyd G. Browne Associates of Marion, who surveyed the sewage plant last year.

Maps $300,000 Program.

Browne's survey pointed out that present equipment at the treatment plant was inadequate and recommended improvements estimates at $300,000 over a period of several years.

Included in the changes were $170,000 in additional equipment recommended for installation in 1940 to increase the plant capacity.

These included the installation of a new digestor at the cost of $30,000 to increase the digestion

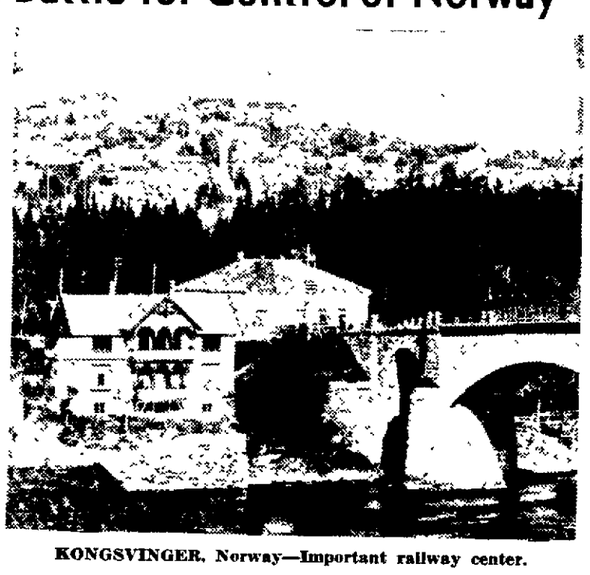
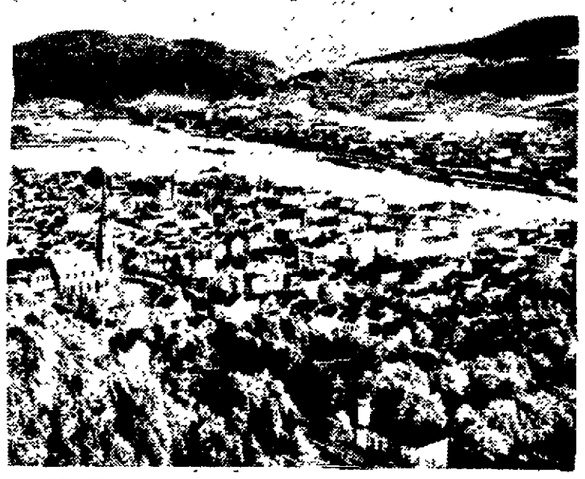
Four Key Cities In Allied-Nazi Battle for Control of Norway

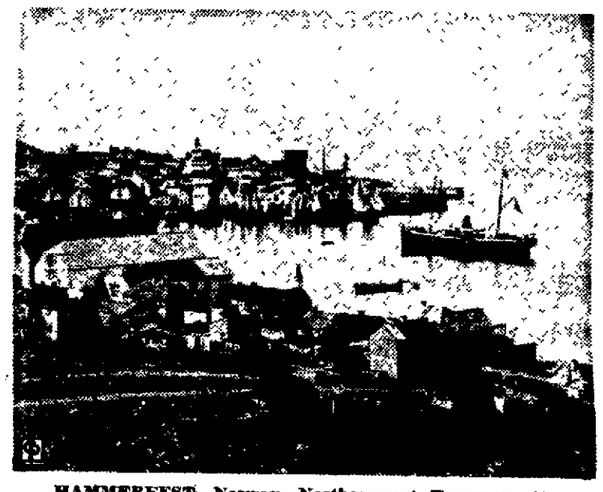
HARSTED, Norway—British reported landed there.



KONGSVINGER, Norway—Important railway center.



DRAMMEN, Norway—Situated on embattled Oslofjord.



HAMMERFEST, Norway—Northernmost European city.

These four Norwegian cities are among the prizes of war now being contested for by Allied and German forces. In Hammerfest defenses are being erected against possible attack by the German navy and counter-attack by Allied naval forces. Hammerfest is Europe's most northerly city. To stem the northward German advance Norwegians have cut three railroad lines running to that city. German troops have attacked Drammen and the high command has reported capture of the city.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A London radio broadcast picked up here today stated that German forces are retreating from the northern Norwegian port of Narvik and moving farther into the interior of Norway towards the Swedish frontier.

KIRUNA, Sweden — (By Telephone to Stockholm)—A German force of between 2,000 and 2,500 men today faced the choice of annihilation, surrender or a fighting retreat into Sweden from Narvik, the Norwegian iron ore port and the northern outpost of the German occupation army.

German troops and British occupation forces were reported fighting in the streets of Narvik.

A small German force had fought its way across the rugged snow-covered mountains to the Swedish frontier.

The main German force is based on the bluff Rombak Heights, across the fjord from Narvik, its line of retreat covered by the big guns of British warships.

The way from Narvik to Sweden is dotted with German and Norwegian dead, lying in the snow.

More than 1,000 German, Norwegian and British dead lie at the bottom of Narvik harbor.

The harbor itself is the graveyard of some 40 German, British and Norwegian warships and German, British, Norwegian and neutral merchants ships. My information is that among these ships is a British cruiser.

Declares 'Easy Money' Lure Led Him to Jail

Carnegie Tech Grad and High-Salaried Executive Sorry Now for Part In Schmutzler Slugging, Robbery.

By JANE WILLIAMS

The lure of "easy money" led Vincent A. Carbeau, 28, former Carnegie Tech man, from a promising career in Ellwood, City, Pa., to the dismal cell block in Richland county jail, where he awaits grand jury hearing on a charge of armed robbery.

Carbeau, a high-salaried executive of an Ellwood industrial plant, stood at the iron bars of the bull pen in county jail this morning, dressed in the blue overalls and striped shirt which all prisoners wear. Yesterday when he appeared in municipal court for arraignment, he wore a well-tailored blue suit.

He frankly discussed his participation in the North Main street robbery of Philip Schmutzler, veteran cafe proprietor and an uncle by marriage of Carbeau's, who was held up at the point of a gun, slugged and robbed of $1,240. He is said by police to have been the "finger man" and to have held the bandit car in readiness while his two companions, William Justine,

VINCENT CARBEAU

28, and Rocco Cusato, 24, approached and robbed Schmutzler.

Carbeau, according to Ellwood City sources, is a member of a wealthy and prominent family of that small city. He is a college man, active in the affairs of his community and considered by his townspeople "one of the nicest and most promising young men in the city."

Since his arrest in Ellwood City Monday and his return to Mansfield, prominent citizens of his home town have telegraphed a desire to help Carbeau in any manner possible. He has never been in trouble in his life and had never seen the inside of a jail until his arrest this week, he said.

Welsh has been in office since Jan. 1. A recount of the November ballots gave him a 178-vote advantage, but Baker contested the result. More than 400 witnesses were called during the extended hearing.

Judge Clarence Ahl of Bucyrus, who handed down the decision, said the final figure was reached after eliminating illegally cast ballots.

DISCOVER NAZI ARMS IN BOATS

Ammunition Hidden in Coal Boats at Stockholm Say London Reports.

LONDON — (INS)—Discovery of large quantities of German arms and ammunition, concealed in German coal boats in Stockholm harbor, was reported today by the London Evening Standard in a dispatch from its correspondent in the Swedish capital.

The Standard's correspondent said Swedish police discovered the arms and munitions last night when they inspected the Nazi ships Drossel, Erpel and Helios. The implements of war assertedly were concealed beneath the cargoes of coal.

The vessels are understood to be under heavy police guard as a result of the discovery, the newspaper said.

AMONG THE NEUTRALS

Rumania Leases Timberland; Yugoslavia Starts Clean-Up

(By Associated Press)

BUCHAREST — The Rumanian senate provisionally accepted today a government bill to give Germany a 30-year lease on almost 100,000 acres of timber—despite testimony of army officers that the lease would jeopardize national defense.

Ionescu Sisesti, minister of agriculture, defended the bill on grounds that it was part of an economic understanding with Germany which greatly benefitted Rumania.

Military experts said the vast forest reserves in central Rumania constituted a natural defense line.

High ranking officers declared that enactment of the bill would be a great strategical error, allowing Germany to send a large corps of experts and workmen into forests located at "the most vulnerable spot in the country," on the old Rumanian-German border.

Sisesti said the Germans should be allowed to build a railroad and establish factories there to carry out lumber operations.

Germany previously had protested Bucharest's embargo on wheat exports and temporary stoppage of oil shipments and, it was acknowledged in official quarters, Rumania is in an extremely difficult position.

The action which Rumania took Monday to fortify herself by storing for her own use such vital commodities as wheat and oil paradoxically was seen as having the contrary effect of further straining relations with Germany.

Dr. Karl Clodius, head of the German trade delegation which has been negotiating here for weeks, was said to have complained that the Rumanian government's new restrictive measures violated German-Rumanian trade agreements which the Nazis insist

CHALLENGE TAFT

Dewey Would Match Strength With Ohioan in Maryland.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, New York city prosecutor, has challenged Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio to enter the Maryland Republican preferential primary.

J. Russel Sprague, Dewey's campaign manager, invited all candidates for the Republican nomination to enter the May 6 primary with the New Yorker, adding "We call this invitation to the particular attention of Senator Taft."

Dewey's supporters said specific mention of Taft resulted from claims which they said Taft forces had made to Maryland's 16 delegates to the national convention.

A launch, missing with 40 passengers since Sunday, was found today, with all aboard safe.

MAP SIDEWALK IMPROVEMENTS

City Officials Announce Plan to Build 15,000 Feet of New Concrete Walks.

Renewal of the city-wide WPA sidewalk improvement program will start May 1, it was announced today by Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton.

Some 50 property owners, taking advantage of the opportunity to have sidewalks repaired without cost of labor have already contracted to participate in the program, Crafton said.

The proposed improvements include the construction of 15,000 square feet of sidewalks in the southwest part of the city.

Under the program, which has been conducted in Mansfield the past three years, property owners are charged 14 cents per square foot for the new walks, representing only the cost of the materials.

L. L. Kochenderefer, city sidewalk inspector said a WPA proposal was being drafted by engineers and will be submitted to state WPA officials in Columbus for approval as soon as completed.

On recommendations from WPA officials, Kochenderfer said, premixed concrete will be used in all construction this year in order to speed up the work.

As the result of the decision to follow the suggestion, Crafton said a supplemental contract will be drafted with Kalmerten-Baer, Inc., which has the contract to supply the city with the concrete, for a lower price than specified in the contract.

The firm cut the price to $6.75 per cubic yard, Crafton said, so the city could meet other costs. The contract had stipulated a price of $7.75 per yard.

Nazis Succeed In Splitting Norway Into 4 Sections

(By International News Service)

STOCKHOLM—Splitting Norway into four sections, swiftly advancing German troops reached the Swedish frontier east of Kongsvinger, Trondheim and Riksgraensen today, bringing the Scandinavian campaign dangerously close to this nervously neutral land.

Reports to Stockholm which told of these advances also indicated the Germans had massed a tremendous air armada at Trondheim on the Norwegian coast for a possible aerial drive against Allied landing forces and British home bases.

(Editor's note: A Norwegian military communique said that Norwegian troops had attacked German detachments in southeastern Norway, with successful counter-assaults also carried out by ski troops at Lake Mjoesa. German parachute troops were annihilated promised them an uninterrupted flow of Rumanian wheat and oil.

Foreign observers saw the new measures as a severe blow to Germany's war economy. Rumania, in some years, has exported to Germany more than one million metric tons of wheat a year, which is about two-thirds of Germany's normal import requirements (A metric ton equals 1.102 short tons of 36 71 bushels of wheat.)

Rumania also has taken other measures for defense Her Black Sea and Danube ports were ready to go under navy rule today as an important step in an intensive program to prepare the nation for the possibility of war.

Units of the Russian navy were reported gathered in unusual number at Odessa, Soviet Black Sea port. (The German radio was reported to have broadcast a Moscow report today that the Russian Black Sea fleet had started maneuvers.

20 Germans Ousted By Yugoslavia.

BELGRADE—(AP)—The Yugoslav government began today to clear the country of hundreds of German "visitors" suspected of spreading propaganda and spying for the German secret police.

The clean-up was begun in Belgrade, the capital, where thousands of leaflets telling Yugosalavs not to resist Germany had been scattered by Nazi sympathizers from automobiles

These leaflets, distributed last Thursday just two days after the German invasion of Norway and Denmark, said: "Do not resist Germany if you value your freedom."

Officials said that public opinion urgently demands stern measures to protect the national security as a result of the invasion of Scandinavia.

Twenty Germans arrested immeditately after the leaflet barrage were expelled from Yugoslavia, and an order was issued today that all other foreigners still in Belgrade must leave within ten days, unless they prove that their presence is "a benefit to the Yugoslav government."

Discount Significance of Italian Missions.

ROME —(INS)— The German embassy in Rome sought today to discount the significance of two German military missions which are in Italy for tours of inspection.

The embassy spokesman said the missions were carrying out technical tasks and had no major significance with regard to Italo-German military cooperation

One of the missions is inspecting military and industrial plants in various parts of Italy while the other, accompanied by Italian officers inspected the Fiat works at Turin

Meanwhile, rumors of Italian, British and Yugoslavian fleet activities in the Adriatic and Aegean seas were entirely unconfirmed

British, Nazis Fight In Streets of Narvik

Force of Germans Trapped on Heights Across Fjord, Stragglers Reach Swedish Border, Are Interned.

the two great Swedish ore centers, far above the Arctic circle, after escaping with the last Norwegian troops and refugees from Narvik and keeping as near as I could to the scene of action, in the frontier area on both sides, sometimes using skis.

The situation as it appears as I telephone to Stockholm is that the whole German occupation force in the Narvik area is completely cut off from contact with the main German forces by land and sea. Their sole hope of supply in the inhospitable Arctic snows is the airplane.

By a desperate fight along the railroad line to Sweden a small detachment of the Germans have reached the frontier. Ten of these at least have crossed into Sweden to be interned.

The remainder of the Germans may try to fight their way along this road, leaving a small suicide party on Rombak Heights to cover their retreat into Sweden

The German force at Narvik and on the heights alternatively may try to fight its way either northward toward Tromsoe or southward toward Bodoe.

In either of these events they would come to a dead end road in a country held by superior forces of Norwegians reinforced by British and without food or other supplies.

Or they may elect to mass on Rombak Heights for a last man fight.

This is the course which those of the Germans I have talked to, the ones who crossed into Sweden, have told me they believe their comrades will choose.

Rombakfjord is an inlet three miles across at its widest point, 5-16ths of a mile at its narrowest, 15 miles long and from 250 to 1,050 feet deep, leading to the Ofotenfjord which connects with the sea.

Narvak is at the southwest corner of the Rombakfjord Rombak Heights lie across from it.

Between Narvik and the Swedish frontier, about 18 miles to the east, are towering mountains, with no roads but with a railroad which runs through a tunnel The Norwegians in their first retreat blocked this tunnel, for train traffic, by wrecking a fully loaded iron ore train in it

It is in this setting that the battle of Narvik is being fought.

The latest developments were the success of the German detachment in reaching the Swedish frontier yesterday morning after days of fighting and privation; the storming of Rombak Heights by the Germans yesterday after Norwegian troops had held it for a week; and the fighting between the British and Germans in the streets of Narvik.

The rest of the story remains to be fought out.

The British in co-operation with Norwegians may try to recapture Rombak Heights They may elect simply to hold Narvik and starve the Germans into surrender or death.

The Germans had to take Rombak Heights. While the Norwegians held them their main force could not retreat.

It took those Germans who reached the frontier yesterday days to do so They reached the point opposite Riksgraensen, which is on the Swedish side, on the railroad The Norwegians had fought bitterly against them and had made a long last stand at the frontier. The fight left the valley littered with dead and wounded.

Only a covering party made the last stand. The remaining Norwegians moved out at dawn yesterday to join larger forces elsewhere and organize for a continued fight.

More than 50 Norwegian soldiers and at least 10 Germans crossed into Sweden to be disarmed and interned.

The British were reported to have landed their main force, on the Ofotenfjord and on the only road to the south.

If the Germans chose to make for Sweden they would be interned If they chose to fight northward they would face a larger better equipped and more determined Norwegian force than that which held them for a week on the Narvik-frontier line They would face bitter cold, snow mountains from which Norwegian patrols could swoop down on them and disappear.

There was the last desperate chance—to remain on the Rombak Heights, dig themselves in and try to inflict the greatest possible losses on any force which tried to dislodge them.

German prisoners and others with whom I have talked believe that the Germans will remain on Romak and fight it out. They would hang on until they could fight no more, willing to die to hold the Allies immobile.

Berlin Claims British Repulsed at Sea.

BERLIN —(AP)— A British battleship was hit squarely by a heaviest-type air bomb, a destroyer was sunk and a transport ship also struck in an aerial attack, Germany reported officially today

DNB, official German News agency, said that full details of aerial blows in a German attack on British naval forces off the Norwegian southwest coast still were to be learned.

The report followed upon a German high command communique announcing the sinking of a destroyer.

The communique enumerated these successes for the German expeditionary forces.

1 The sinking of a British destroyer of the "tribal" class by a submarine northeast of the Shetland Islands (The London admiralty reported the loss of the 1,575-ton British submarine Thistle but has not mentioned the loss of a destroyer.)

2. A large transport ship "hit squarely by the heaviest caliber air bombs"

3. Norwegian forces in the north routed by Germans taking control of the ore-carrying railroad from Narvik east to the Swedish border Authorized sources insisted Narvak still was in German hands.

4. The German navy covered the transport of personnel and "material reinforcements" to Norwegian ports.

5. Forces ashore broadened the occupied area, developed costal defense and "fully prepared" fortifications for defense of Oslo.

Germans Digging In In Southern Norway.

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM—German troops hastened mopping up operations in southern Norway today behind a potential line of defense extending from the Atlantic port of Trondheim to the Swedish frontier, 50 miles away.

The front, apparently planned as a bulwark against possible attack by British troops reported to have landed on Norway's northern shores, was established yesterday when the invading Nazis gained control of an important railway cutting across the country's narrow "waist"

The only German armed forces north of Trondheim appeared isolated in the vicinity of Narvik, 400 miles away, and there was increasing evidence that the invaders intended to concentrate on consolidating their positions behind the newly established line in middle Norway.

This theory was supported by official Berlin statements minimizing the importance of operations at Narvik, which Norwegian sources said already had been occupied by the Allies, and emphasizing the strength of the German position in the south

Observers pointed out that the Germans apparently have control of virtually all strategic points on the Norwegian coast below Trondheim—including the ports of Kristiansund, Bergen and Stavanger—and are in good position to repel Allied attacks from the sea.

There were reports of scattered fighting in southern Norway in which Norwegian troops were said to be retiring before superior Nazi detachments.

Kongsvinger, northeast of Oslo, and about 30 miles from the Swedish frontier, was reported occupied by the Germans after street fighting with a small force of Norwegians left to impede the advance.

Norwegian military headquarters announced that ski troops had made a successful counter attack on the flank of German forces near Hakadal, east of Oslo, but said that farther south the defenders were retiring before Nazi units

Scattered remnants of the Norwegian army continued to pour across the southern border into Sweden, where they were disarmed and interned

The Norwegians said their positions in the Fossum district, 125 miles northwest of Oslo, still were intact or captured in attempting landings elsewhere, the statement said.)

German warplanes roared continuously from Denmark toward Trondheim This led to believe that Germany, while gaining against crumbling Norwegian resistance on land, was maneuvering in position to unleash her aerial strength against Britain from the Reich's newly acquired vantage points.

Capture of Kongsvinger, northeast of Oslo, was announced by Major Baecker, commander of German troops in that area. He said Norwegian resistance lacked organization and that only a small detachment had attempted defense of the city

A special dispatch of the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported that a German troop train arrived yesterday evening at a Swedish border station on the railway linking Trondheim and Storlien.

Three unarmed German officers left the train and informed the Swedish commander at the border that the Germans were now "protecting the Norwegian section of the railway.

The train then left, the dispatch stated, but halted slightly more than a mile from the frontier, where the German forces remained.

South of Trondheim, the report stated, the Germans reached the Norwegian town of Stoeren despite resistance from Norwegians who blew up a bridge at nearby Lundamo only one minute before the German transport column arrived.

Renewed Controversy Looms Over Date of Thanksgiving.

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—It may be a little early to worry about it, but it looks as if the date of Thanksgiving will be an issue again in 1940.

Some calendars adhere to the old "last Thursday in November" practice and designate Thanksgiving as the 28th. But others—including some printed by the Federal government for the use of congressmen—give the date as the 21st.

Fourth Street Resident Also Had Nagging Pains In Back. Arms and Limbs Were Tired and Achy. Tells of Wonderful Relief Vendol Gave.

MRS. CLARENCE RUNGE

"I was constipated all the time and my kidneys were sluggish in action, and I'm sure this was causing all my aches, pains, and suffering," stated Mrs. Clarence Runge of 87 East Fourth street, Mansfield, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"After meals my stomach would start grumbling and sour gas seemed to fill me up till I was terribly distressed and uncomfortable. Acid risings came up and burned my throat and I often suffered from "heartburn."

"At times I'd have 'hunger pains' between meals, yet I didn't want to eat and my head frequently ached terribly. I often had nagging pains in my back, and limbs would feel tired and ache something awful. There were some nights when these pains kept me from sleeping well.

"I started taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets because so many people spoke highly of them and I really believe they helped me from the first day. I never had anything act to relieve my constipation so nicely; then all the stomach distress, gas, sourness, and bloated feeling passed off Vendol also acted on my kidneys in a nice, smooth manner.

"I never have a backache, pain in my arms or limbs any more and really feel wonderful since taking Vendol, so I credit it with all the grand relief I got."

Vendol has helped many people right here in this city so why not give it a chance to help you, too. It is made from well known extracts of Roots and Herbs with Mild Alkalines added, and this makes about the finest medicine one can take. So, start on Vendol today

A special representative, called the Vendol Man, is daily at Central Drug Store, corner Main and 4th Streets, to explain all about this famous medicine. Come see him; there is no obligation; learn how Vendol can help you, too. Most all leading druggists sell it.

Great Raymond at Madison.

THE Great Raymond, who is in the higher brackets of the now-you-see-it-now-you-don't entertainers, heads his own company which moved into the Madison theater today for a two day showing. Raymond not only puts on an elaborate show of magic and illusion, but carries a supplementary revue of vaudeville acts. Raymond uses stooges in staging his magic show and puts on a dozen new tricks that are his own inventions as well as using some of the famous illusions that are always popular. Comedy, beauty and talent are said to be combined for the revue. Martha Raye and Charlie Ruggles are teamed in a film comedy, "The Farmer's Daughter" which supplements the stage show.

"Singapore" Held Over.

"The Road to Singapore" which is nonsensical as two shoes for the right foot and none for the left, will be held through Thursday at the Ohio, Manager William Dworski said today. The show is all fun and no sense, with Bob Hope and Bing Crosby providing fun and music and Dorothy Lamour the pulchritude. The two boys have a game of patty-cake that climaxes most of the exciting scenes of the film.

Douglas Story at Majestic.

Lloyd Douglas, the Indiana minister whose novels have been best sellers both at the book shops and the movie box offices, is author of "Disputed Passage." The picture is playing a return Mansfield engagement at the Majestic. John Howard is the brilliant medical student who couldn't live for a career alone and Dorothy Lamour is the girl who stands in the way. "Another Thin Man" with William Powell and Myrna Loy is the second attraction.

After the Headlines.

When Lynn Bari, a girl reporter crashes the bronze doors of an exclusive gambling club to get an "inside story" for police, she lets herself in for an exciting eight hours in "City of Chance." Donald Woods appears opposite her in this Ritz theater feature. Marihuana, the narcotic which has enslaved thousands of American youth, is the subject of "Assassin of Youth," also on the bill.

Clip-Joint Hostess.

The veil of secrecy is lifted from the so-called "clip joints" in "Cafe Hostess" which is being shown at the Park theater through Thursday. It deals with the "percentage girls" who serve as comeons in shady cocktail place. Preston Foster is a two-fisted sailor and Ann Dvorak is a percentage girl who meet at one of the places. Otto Kruger and Ona Munson (who played Belle Watling in "G. W. T. W.") have major roles in "Scandal Sheet" at the Park.

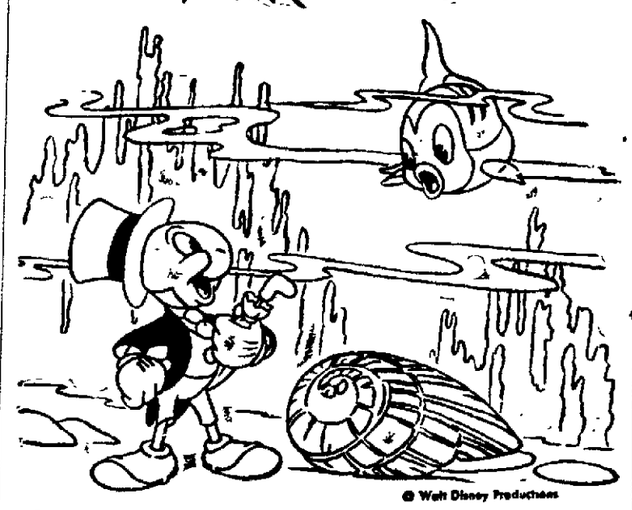
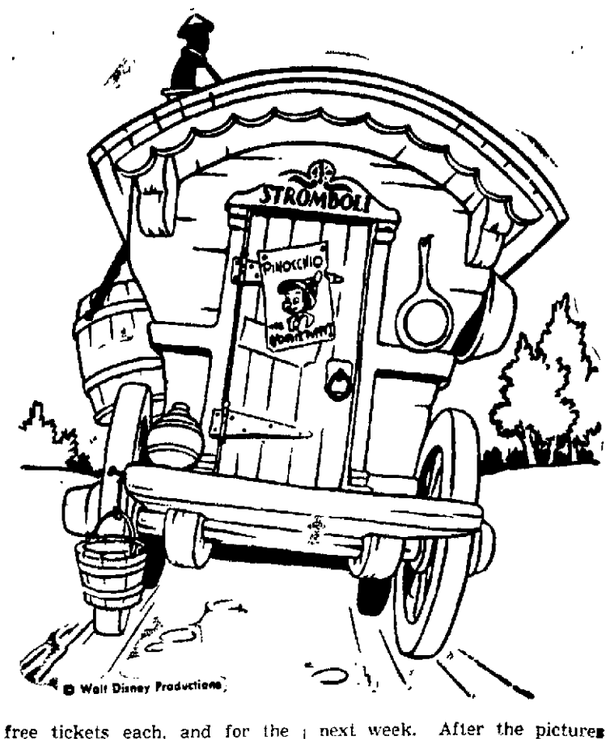
Color Pinocchio and Friends, Win Theater Tickets





Guess who's coming Pinnocchio, the little boy whose nose grew and grew with every falsehood he told.

This beloved character out of childhood fairy tales is the subject of Walt Disney's second full length animated cartoon picture, and is a successor to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The picture opens a week's engagement at the Ohio theater Saturday and the theater will give away 25 free tickets to boys and girls 16 years of age and under who send in the best colored version of the cartoons shown here.

The first one shows the Blue Fairy giving life to the little marionette, Pinocchio, but warning him that he can become a real boy only through his own actions.

The second picture shows Jiminy Cricket seeking information on the whereabouts of Monstro, the whale. And the third picture is the circus wagon in which traveled the Great Stromboli, the pupeteer, who had purchased Pinocchio from Foulfellow, the Fox.

For the first ten of the best colored versions of these pictures The News-Journal and the Ohio theater will present two free tickets each, and for the next five, one ticket each.

The contest opens today and closes at 9 p. m. Saturday. Winners will be announced early next week. After the pictures are colored—either by water paints or crayons—they should be sent to the Pinocchio Editor, News-Journal.

STATE WORKERS LOSE POSITIONS

Over 200 Highway Department Employes Out as Ruling Affects 4,000.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Several hundred provisional state employes were out of jobs today as state division heads took advantage of a recent supreme court decision.

The court had ruled illegal the time-honored method of appointment of provisionals before formal certification, and made legal rehiring necessary. This offered division heads an opportunity to get rid of any of the 4,000 affected provisionals simply by not reappointing them. It was unnecessary to file formal charges and the discharged employe had no appeal to the civil service commission.

So today Tom McCaw, chief of the aid for the aged division, announced that 68 provisionals had not been rehired, and it was reported that approximately 200 highway department employes had felt the axe in the same manner.

The approved hiring procedure, worked out by the civil service commission with the aid of the attorney general, is a temporary appointment of 30 days, a non-competitive examination by the commission, its approval, and then permanent appointment.

In making announcement of the dismissals today McCaw said that not all had been appointed under the previous Democratic regime, a few being unsatisfactory appointees of the last year. Of those appointed under previous administrations he said that a large percentage had been placed on the payroll just before the 1938 primaries and that the division had evidence of political activity by many of them.

Do you keep your friendships in constant repair?

Drawing by permission C. E. Learnet Co., Publishers of Boswell's "Life of Samuel Johnson"

All who knew wise old Sam Johnson, the author of the first great English dictionary, were awed by his capacity for hard work and charmed by the witty company he drew around him to relax when work was done.

Sam Johnson said that a man should always keep his friendships in "constant repair." He was right. A man is known by the ~~company~~ he keeps. friends

You know what friends mean . . . how they rally 'round you when your skies are gray . . . help untangle your thoughts and restore clear thinking . . . squelch your foolish fears . . . bolster your confidence and give new strength to your courage. And when skies are bright again, what a pleasure it is to gather your friends together to laugh over the past, enjoy the present and plan for the future with fortitude. With your friends about you, if you feel that you're rich . . . you're right.

SHERIFF SELLING 94 LOTS IN TAX FORECLOSURES

96 to Be Offered in Auctions With All But Two Ordered to Collect Levies.

Ninety-six properties in the Mansfield area will be put on the auction block at sheriff's sales on three consecutive Saturday's, beginning April 27, for judgments totaling $30,300, Deputy Sheriff Frank Robinson said today.

All except two of the lots are involved in delinquent tax foreclosure judgments on which County Treasurer John E. Kolb will attempt to collect $28,754. All of the sales of properties on which tax judgments were granted will be sold May 11.

The sale scheduled for April 27 will result from a partition action brought by Bernice Culler against Wade Culler. She seeks to have her share of a Mansfield property set apart. The property is valued at $2,000.

On May 4 a Mansfield property valued at $2,000 will be offered on a judgment for $1,559 awarded the Citizens Savings and Loan company against Ollie Boyce and others.

To satisfy delinquent tax judgments, five Mansfield properties will be sold May 11 on a judgment for $678 against Ione Slough and others. Seventy-eight lots in the Coolridge Heights allotment will be offered by the sheriff on judgments amounting to $24,987 against the Farmers Savings and Trust company as trustee.

On the same day the treasurer will attempt to collect $1,915 on nine lots owned by Teresa Schwatrz and $1,174 on a property involved in a judgment against Hattie Hayes. In both cases the properties are in Mansfield.

400TH YEAR

Southwest Readies Celebra- In Honor of Coronado.

LYONS, Kans. —(AP)— The year 1540 . . . springtime . . . Compostela, Mexico . . . Don Francisco Vasquez de Coronado and his army were off to find the seven fabled cities of Cibola and claim them under the red and gold banner of Spain.

This summer citizens of southwestern states will begin a celebration of the 400th anniversary of his journey. Congress has allotted $200,000 for the Cuarto centennial" observation.

Pageants and fiestas aleady are scheduled in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona this summer. Kansas will not start until next year, because Coronado didn't reach here until 1541, but will participate in the other states' festivities.

Coronado's journey was the first conquest by Europeans in what is now the United States. Coronado built a palace at Santa Fe, N. M., 80 years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth.

GETS $300 AND THE TOMATOES

Fifteen Cent Award Is For Can Of Vegetables He Lost.

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—A $7,250 damage suit was settled here for $300 and a can of tomatoes.

The plaintiff alleged a finance company agent, in taking his automobile for lack of payments, had humiliated him in the presence of neighbors.

He also complained the agent drove away with a can of tomatoes in the car.

The finance company settled for $300.15. The 15 cents was to buy another can of tomatoes.

REOPEN MINES

War Prices Enable Swiss to Sell Coal at a Profit.

LAUSANNE — (AP) — Switzerland's wartime coal mines are being worked again for the first time in twenty years.

A century ago the Swiss discovered small coal deposits in the Valais canton near Lausanne, but they are worth operation only when wars in Europe raise the price of coal. Three such mines have been opened recently.

POETRY SMELLS

Contest Judge Finds Everything Including Perfume on MSS.

REDLANDS, Calif.—(AP)—When Dr. Lawrence E. Nelson took on the administration of a poetry prize contest he hardly knew what he was in for. Contributions came in with hand-decorated envelopes, ornamental borders around the manuscripts, photographs of the authors, and self-laudatory letters and telegrams. Some of the verses even were perfumed.

Service and Character Building Keynote Their Work

Citizenship responsibility, developed through community service, is the keystone of Boy Scouting, just as training for homemaking and civic responsibility are the fundamentals of Girl Scouting. The first four pictures shown above, give some idea of Boy Scout activities. 1—How to administer first aid in case of accident is one of the important features of the Scouts' study program. Charles Perkeybile, (left) and Norman Pore, (standing) are giving first aid for a broken arm to the "victim," Scott Keller. 2—Three classes of Scouts are shown here; James Augustine as a Sea Scout, Murray Swihart (center) as a Senior Scout, and James Day as a Cub. 3—Boy Scouts have always played an important part in Mansfield's annual Community Fund campaigns. Here they are shown accepting from C. K. Smaltz, campaign chairman this year, the first of 10,000 booklets of the Community Fund that were delivered from door to door. The Scouts are Charles Perkeybile (center) and Scott Keller. 4—One of the annual services of the Boy Scouts is decorating the graves of soldier dead in Mansfield and rural cemeteries. The last three pictures depict interests of the Girl Scouts. 5—The girls take their indoor study as seriously as their out-door play, and their studies range from how to bake cookies to garden cultivation. In this study group are, left to right, Nina Jean Stash, Kathleen Diemer and Bonnie Reed, all from Troop 12, Carpenter school. 6—Troop 13 at Bowman school has built a miniature house and all the furnishings, using it for study in home making. The girls shown with the house are Marilyn Vandlik and Mary Roadpouch. 7—Protection and feeding of birds in cold weather is a Girl Scout responsibility. Here are Dorothy Arlin, left, Connie Roelof, center, and Elaine Guiher studying the winter habits of the birds.

Boy and Girl Scouts Have Identical Aims

Hundreds of Mansfield Youngsters Get Character and Citizenship Training Through Community Fund Agencies.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles and pictures dealing with the nine agencies that make up the Mansfield Community Fund. A campaign to raise $57,500 for the support of these agencies for the ensuing year will open April 29.)

The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts are two organizations, entirely independent of each other, and yet they have almost identical objectives — character building and citizenship training.

The Boy Scouts is the older organization; in fact it was the inspiration for the organization of a girls' group similar in purpose. After the Boy Scouts were organized in England, little sisters looked on enviously as their brothers met in convention. Finally the girls started a Scout organization of their own.

But the Boy Scouts is a much older organization in Mansfield. Troops have been active here since 1912. It was not until 1920, however that a full time executive was employed and a first class council formed. Floyd Dent became identified with the Scouts in Mansfield as Scout executive Oct. 1, 1920 and has served in that capacity continuously since then.

Since that time there have been 4,100 boys who have been registered with the council. At the present time there are 564 Boy Scouts in Mansfield, and Mansfield is one of the districts in the Johnny Appleseed area, which has 1,590 members and 497 men serving as volunteer counselors, scoutmasters, assistants and committeemen.

There are three groups in Boy Scouting. There are the Cubs, from 9 to 11 years old inclusive; the Scouts, 12 to 15 years inclusive; and the family of Senior Scouts. There are three classes of the latter — the Explorers, the Sea Scouts and the Rovers.

The Rovers constitute one of the most important branches of the Scout program; they are the boys over 18 who have been graduated from Scout activities but who still want to be of service to their community and to aid the younger scouts.

Everyone is familiar with the outdoor program of the Boy Scouts which seeks to build stronger bodies and higher ideals among young boys, but the community service, while just as important, is less publicized.

For the past 20 years the Scouts have assisted in decorating graves of all soldier dead on Memorial Day; they have done traffic duty on Saturday nights and during conventions; they have gone from door to door passing out tons of literature regarding civic campaigns and other events. Their work during Community Fund campaigns and the American Legion's annual Poppy Day has been outstanding.

Any boy is eligible to become a Scout. It is the contention of national Boy Scout leaders that if the organization can get a boy when he is young enough and start his citizenship training and character building early enough, he is almost certain to avoid the pitfalls that lie in wait for the boys of today. Statistics show that very few Scouts ever become juvenile delinquents or adult criminals.

The only assessments in this organization is the fifty cents charged for national dues. All other expenses are optional. A summer camp is maintained which makes it possible for all scouts to have a vacation in the open.

Receive $5,782.

The Boy Scouts received $5,782 last year from the Mansfield Community Fund, and will receive slightly less than that amount this year if the goal of $57,500 is reached.

The administration cost of the Scouts, for three full time workers, is $5,485. The other $4,388 required for the annual program is financed through other means.

The Girl Scout movement in Mansfield came under the financial support of the Community Fund only two years ago. The girls organized in troops some years ago, but the council was formed in 1937.

This group seeks to help young girls to become "intelligent, participating citizens in a democratic order, through the development of self control, in group activities, wholesome recreation, and the discovery of new interests and resources."

Girl Scouts also are divided into three age groups: Senior Scouts for Senior high school girls; Intermediate Scouts for girls from 10 to 14 years; and Brownie Scouts for girls between the ages of 7 and 9.

The program provides activity for every girl regardless of race or creed.

Troop activities include music and dancing, homemaking, arts and crafts, literature and dramatics, community life, international friendship, health and safety, nature study, out-o-door sports and games.

Three hundred young girls from practically every section of the city are now enjoying the advantages of the Girl Scouts program: a program that is carried out under the supervision of 35 trained adult leaders.

A full-time Girl Scout executive is employed now and 82 persons donated their services during the past year. Miss Eleanor Bond is Scout executive.

Total expenses of the organization for the past year were $1,377 and their allocation from the Community Fund was $1,757. Under the budget for next year they will receive $1,850. The administration cost was $890 last year.

ROYAL DESIGNS

King Carol Plans Uniforms of All His Soldiers.

BUCHAREST—(AP)—King Carol II, like Goering, designs uniforms. The sovereign has designed new costumes for almost every uniformed person in Rumania. This is saying a great deal, for in the Balkans uniforms are numerous, highly colorful and of greater importance than in many other countries.

The uniforms of the twelve regiments of the Royal Guard, all different, offered his majesty the best opportunity to show what he could do with cloth, color, braid, brass buttons and in some cases a little fur.

The king makes rough sketches of proposed uniforms. An artist produces a finished sketch in color, which Carol studies carefully, frequently making repeated changes until he gets what he wants. He often goes through American and British illustrated magazines for ideas for new uniforms.

Forest planting in the United States during 1939 totaled 504,616 acres.

PIKESVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—G. C. Ratliff is curious enough to find out just how long black walnuts remain edible if left in the shell.

In 1923, he visited a friend who gave him walnuts gathered three years earlier. So he decided to start his experiment. He obtained a large number of walnuts and began cracking one each year. He has yet to find a bad one after 17 years. He still has enough walnuts to last until 1952.

Feller Says Curve Ball Wasn't Working In No-Hitter

Zacharias Faces Test at Armory Tonight

By CHARLES MARTIN

LABELED as the "hardest hitting middleweight in Columbus amateur fight circles," Manuel Armstrong comes here tonight to trade blows with Jake Zacharias of Mansfield in the five-round feature match of the benefit "battle of champions" show which Battery D presents at the Armory.

* * * * *

What happens in that final tussle remains to be seen, but it appears that Zacharias, one of north central Ohio's leading 160-pounders, may have a real battle.

* * * * *

That Armstrong possesses a potent punch is shown in his remarkable performance in the American Legion tournament in the Capital city this spring.

He ploughed his way to the semi-finals in that meet with knockout victories and had his rivals staggering in the last two bouts. He went through four matches to reach the semi-final bracket

Zacharias, however, may make it interesting for the dusky Columbus mittster. The Friendly House boy has won every title in this district and in his first appearance in a Cleveland Golden Gloves tourney early this year he gave a good account of himself

The lad that beat Zacharias in the first bout was Joey Maxim, who since then has won the Chicago Tournament of Champions crown, the New York amateur title and the National A A. U. championship at Boston

This setto is one of the three five-rounders on the program In the others Paul Carbetta, 116, Friendly House, tackles Eddie Potter, Columbus, city bantamweight titleholder, and Ray Howman, 135, of Ashland, lets lose his punches against Frank Franklin, 134, Columbus.

Carbetta is making his second start as a bantamweight and he will have to be at his best against the rugged Columbus youngster. Franklin was to meet Beauford Glover, but the latter suffered a cut over his left eye in the national classic and has been forbidden by physicians to enter the ring for several weeks.

Five three-round heats hold the stage early in the evening. The short affairs, which open the show at 8:15 p. m. will consist of three-minute rounds, while the longer tussles will be two-minute settos.

Al Sauer of Mansfield, fast-improving lightheavyweight, enters the ring against Charles Hodges, 164, Columbus. This will probably be the top three-round melee.

Al's brother, Joe, tries for his first ring triumph by squaring off with John Cottier, 146, Fremont. In Joe's first competition on the J. A. C. program he lost to Cottier in the finals.

Other three-round sessions toss Sammy Walker, 126, Friendly House, against Norman Weiser, 124, Fremont, Eddie Tally, 116, Friendly House, against Bill Zenle, 116, Fremont, and Ed Laubert, 135, Fremont, against Dan Matthews, 135, Columbus.

* * * * *

Judges announced today by officials are Joe Scanlon and "Gyp" Miller of Mansfield and Wayne Strine of Ashland. John Eichinger of Mansfield will be the referee.

* * * * *

Proceeds of the show will be used to purchase equipment for the Battery D's club room at the Armory.

Braves' New Catcher on Hand

Carl Foldenauer, catcher, above, joins the Mansfield Braves' squad as it swings into full training sessions today at the Fairground. While pitchers and catchers have been on hand a week, the infielders and outfielders reported to Manager Dewey Stover this morning. Foldenauer was with the Tiffin Mud Hens last year and is expected to be the Braves' first-string baskstop. Foldenauer inked his Mansfield contract Saturday.

Feller Opens Baseball Season With No-Hitter

Bob Feller, 21-year-old speed king of the Cleveland Indians, burned his way into baseball's Hall of Fame on the opening day of the major league season by hurling a no-hit, no-run game against the Chicago White Sox. Feller faced only 33 men as the Indians won, 1 to 0. He fanned eight batters, walked five, and from the third to the ninth inning set down 20 Sox in a row. The picture to the right shows Feller being congratulated enthusiastically by Manager Oscar Vitt. The action picture shows Taft Wright of Chicago safe at second in the second inning after Roy Weatherly (No. 7), Cleveland centerfielder, dropped his short fly.

Hurler Stars

Derringer in Superb Form As Cincinnati Reds Score 2 to 1 Victory.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Well, Paul Derringer has 1-25 of his quota of victories for 1940 and Today sees Bucky Walters going after 1-27 of the job cut out for him.

You may point to history and say that it takes a man to win 50 games in two years, but on the basis of what happened here yesterday, there are grounds for a healthy suspicion that there is just such a man in town.

Of Bucky's chances for making it 54 in two years, more may be said after his tilt this afternoon with Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs.

All that is known for sure right now is that Big Paul is in August form and that when he is in that form the Cincinnati Reds are hard to beat.

Gabby Hartnett's Cubs found that out under the slate-colored skies of opening day General Bill Lee, one of Gabby's aces, was no slouch himself. He allowed only two runs, but when Paul Derringer is pitching for the Reds, they don't need many more than that and the score was 2 to 1.

Paul might have had a shutout but for one big fat pitch to Augie Galan in the sixth. The ball came down in the right field bleachers.

Both the Reds' runs were homers, one a line drive by Frank McCormick over the centerfield fence, the other a long, low one by Ival Goodman into his favorite right field bleachers.

Outside of that the ball game was just Paul Derringer and Bill Lee and Paul was just a wee bit the better man. He threw just 105 pitches, walked no one, struck out three, and had almost everybody hitting into the air.

And that starts the Reds toward another pennant.

BIG league baseball's first bite was as lusty as spring's first strawberry and the flavor will linger for days

The no-hit spectacle of young Bob Feller, the two-hit efforts of old Lefty Grove and the uniformly fine flinging in every one of yesterday's eight games lifted the 1940 inaugural to a high place among the sport's opening days.

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO—(AP)—Robert William Andrew Feller stood there in the dressing room, strangely composed but happy, and said "My curve wasn't breaking the way I wanted it to."

He wasn't popping off and he wasn't being facetious. There is no false modesty in the makeup of this 21-year-old Iowa farm boy who yesterday entered baseball's hall of fame with a no-hit, no-run game, first ever recorded in the season's opener in modern major league history. He struck out eight batters and walked five Another reached base on an error.

"I think I've been faster several times," he explained. "Of course that strong wind behind me helped make me faster. But I couldn't seem to throw a curve very well"

A matter of fact, hard working country boy, that's Feller. He congratulated his Cleveland mates just as warmly as they praised him for the 1-0 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Rollie Hemsley, Feller's catcher and closest friend on the squad whose triple sent Jeff Heath home with the winning run, said he had seen the young righthander a lot faster but "He was never a better pitcher—he's got everything."

Standing outside the dressing room in the chilly air was Mrs. William Feller of Van Meter, Ia., waiting to reclaim her famous son from the uproar inside.

Last June on Mother's day she was one of 25,000 spectators in Comiskey park when Bob was pitching. A foul tip from the bat of a White Sox player struck her in the head and she was rushed to a hospital for emergency treatment. As soon as Feller was assured his mother was not seriously injured he returned to the mound and continued his pitching job

He joined the Indians in 1936, a lad of 16 without ever having pitched in a minor league game Since then he has won 55 games while losing 30. He led the American league in victories last year with 24 and has led in strikeouts the past two seasons.

No other pitcher in modern times ever tossed a no-hitter to open the diamond season.

On April 15, 1909, Leon K. Ames pitched nine hitless, runless innings for New York against Brooklyn in the season's inaugural but lost the game in extra innings, 3-0, giving up seven hits in the last four frames of a 13-inning game

Feller's no-hitter was the first in the big leagues since Monte Pearson of New York turned the trick against Cleveland on Aug. 27, 1938

After the game Feller praised his teammates for their part in the victory, especially singling out Ray Mack, rookie second baseman. Mack knocked down Taft Wright's hard smash and nailed him at first for the final out of the game.

"I wasn't sure I had it until Mack threw out that last man," Bob said "That was the hardest ball hit off me all day. It really was hit."

Feller also praised the defensive play of Ben Chapman and Ken Keltner.

He said he was unworried about the "no-hit jinx," a superstition that pitchers often slump after hurling a perfect game.

"Tomorrow's another day and I'll be out there every time I pitch just trying to win for the Indians," the youthful ace said.

Heath got on base with the winning run by driving out a single in the fourth Hemsley's triple was a hefty smash to the right-field corner.

Mack doubled to start the seventh, but was nipped at third on Feller's bunt. Hemsley also got a single, with Keltner and Roy Weatherly collecting the other Cleveland hits.

Willis Hudlin, dean of the mound staff, was scheduled to pitch today, with Johnny Rigney on the hill for the Chisox.

Feller is due to make his next appearance at Cleveland stadium next Sunday against the Detroit Tigers. Indian officials are predicting a crowd of 50,000.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Kansas City was enthroned today as the overwhelming favorite of baseball writers to win its second consecutive American Association championship this season.

Twenty-six members of the AA Writers' chapter indicated they were ready to give the 1940 pennant to the men of Bill Meyer now instead of waiting until the firing, which begins Thursday, ceases Sept. 15. Only four objections were heard.

Two loyal Minneapolis scribes picked the Millers, who finished second last year, while one Toledoan chose Indianapolis and another Toledoan took Louisville, 1939 playoff winner and junior world champion.

The Louisville Colonels edged Minneapolis for runner-up honors in the balloting. Indianapolis got the nod for fourth to round out the first division.

St. Paul, Milwaukee, Columbus and Toledo weren't accorded even an outside chance of winning and the concensus was that all four would wind up in the lower bracket again.

League President George M. Trautman earlier predicted that the flag race this year wouldn't be any "two horse" runaway.

OPTIMISTS TO DEFEND TITLE IN TOURNAMENT

With the championship Optimist team on hand to defend its title, some 40 Mansfield clubs were ready today to open the third annual City Handicap bowling tournament at the Meder alleys Saturday. Play will wind up April 20 and 21.

Deadline for filing entry blanks to participate in the tourney is 10 p. m. today, Brig Young, secretary, stated today. The meet is scheduled to start at 6 p. m. Saturday.

EIGHT MANSFIELD TEAMS READY FOR ABC TOURNEY

Eight Mansfield bowling teams prepared today to invade Detroit Thursday to make a bid for honors in the ABC tournament.

They are the Satterlee Restaurant; Ingram and Martin Oldsmobile; Ringside Cafe; Weidner Pontica Pontiac; Licderkranz club; Lutz Lumber company; Mansfielders; Mansfield Tires No. 11 and Optimist club.

BUYERS FAVOR ISSUES TODAY IN STOCK MART

Center Interest on Aircrafts and Steels; Bonds Show Rising Tendencies.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Buyers re-entered the stock market today favoring steels, aircrafts and a few specialties. Wall Street sentiment varied with every report and rumor from Europe.

Leaders in the upturn included Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Boeing, Douglas, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Lockheed and International Paper Common and Preferred.

Bonds and commodities generally showed rising tendencies. London and Amsterdam markets were firm and Paris was irregular.

Boardrooms remarked a firming undertone to United States industry in such barometers as steel production and weekly freight carloadings.

The former, while off, was steadier and experts estimated that the latter was making its seasonal rise.

Detroit reported automobile sales running 23 per cent ahead of March and 33 per cent ahead of the first 10 days of April, 1939.

BROOD IN OVEN

Chickens Had Warm Spot for a While—Almost Too Warm.

PUEBLO, Colo.—(AP)—A Pueblo housewife awakened one spring morning recenty to find not one but six chickens in her oven.

As she lighted the stove preperatory to making breakfast biscuits she heard a "peep, peep." Investigation disclosed six chicks in roaster inside the oven. Her children explained they had acquired the chicks the night before and had placed them in the oven to keep them warm.

STERILIZE TACKS

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—A display of sterilized carpet tacks was one of the exhibits at the forty-second annual convention of the Missouri Retail Hardware Association held in St. Louis.

The sterilized carpet tack manufacturers stress the fact their tacks reduce the danger to workmen who like to hold a supply in their mouths.

EXPECT AUTO OUTPUT TO HIT FIVE MILLIONS

Industry Foresees Top Year As Production Hits 100,000 Per Week.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT — What a sustained production average of 100,000 cars and trucks a week may portend for the motor-car industry is being studied by manufacturers, distributors and trade authorities generally as a winter-spring output volume paralleled only twice in the industry's history shows no sign of curtailment.

The assembly plants turned out 1,302,108 vehicles in the first quarter of 1937, increased the tempo in the second three months and rounded out the first half of the year with an aggregate production of 2,876,867 units.

There are many observers in the industry who believe 1940 will equal that showing. Whether it will also equal the final mark of 1937—a total of 5,016,437—is being widely discussed in trade circles.

The men who make the nation's cars and trucks agree that 5,000,000 units are more than one year's "normal" requirement. They recall, too, that the 1937 high mark was followed by a sharp reaction in 1938 when factory sales dropped to 2,655,171 cars and trucks. What happened following the 1929 "bulge" to 5,600,000 units is something most of the trade leaders like to forget.

Nevertheless, the manufacturers and the trade analysts, after emphasizing that they are making no such predictions, say a total of 5,000,000 cars and trucks this year is wholly possible—and with no adverse aftermath.

Generally, however, the year's production volume is being appraised at 4,700,000, the assumption being that it more nearly represents the potential retail market.

MEXICO WARY

Officials Ready to Halt Any Effort at Uprising.

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — Mexico today was on guard as a result of what informed government sources said was evidence that Nazi and Communist agents are seeking to divert American nations, especially the United States, from any move to enter the European war.

The government sources said the agents were working under cover to foment an uprising but expressed confidence such a move would be halted at the start.

A German legation spokesman declared Germany would not take part in any plot to overthrow a friendly government.

AIRCRAFT AND STEEL ISSUES EDGE FORWARD

Leaders in Other Groups Are Unable to Make Much Progress in Market.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Selected aircrafts and steels edged forward in today's stock market but leaders in some other groups were unable to make much progress.

On the upside at the start—several subsequently slipped—were Curtiss-Wright, Lockheed, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, International Paper, Chrysler and Dow Chemical.

Bonds were mixed. Commodities pointed higher. "Free" sterling dipped in terms of the dollar. Markets were up in Paris and London and down at Amsterdam.

Market followers noted the figures of reporting Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended April 10, disclosing a drop of $21,000,000 in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans after seven consecutive weekly increases.

Those interested in the steels found some comfort in trade summaries indicating consumption of the metal has been in excess of production for the past two months.

Asks $30,000 More for Sewage Plant

TURNER SAYS CITY'S NEEDS CAN'T BE MET

Declares Equipment Designed For City of 45,000 Fails to Meet Present Demands.

OFFICIALS STUDY REPORT

Superintendent Says Digestor Needed Immediately to Give Complete Treatment.

A report from Superintendent James R. Turner declaring that Mansfield's sewage treatment works is inadequate for present needs and requires additional equipment immediately costing $30,000, was being studied today by city officials

Turner's report disclosed that the three-year-old unit lacked the equipment to properly treat all the sewage entering the plant, originally designed for a city of 45,000 population

The treatment works was opened for service in March 1937 and had been built at the cost of $331,000. During that period there have been a series of charges and complaints that the plant has not functioned to the best efficiency.

Turner's latest complaint laid before Service-Safety Director C M. Crafton in a two-page report dealing with suggested changes in equipment and personnel points out a need for addition digestion equipment to expand the capacity of the treatment process.

The superintendent said he regarded the problem of bringing the plant up to capacity as "paramount" and recommended the installation of an additional digestor as recommended by Floyd G. Browne Associates of Marion, who surveyed the sewage plant last year.

Maps $300,000 Program.

Browne's survey pointed out that present equipment at the treatment plant was inadequate and recommended improvements estimates at $300,000 over a period of several years

Included in the changes were $170,000 in additional equipment recommended for installation in 1940 to increase the plant capacity.

These included the installation of a new digestor at the cost of $30,000 to increase the digestion

KIRUNA, Sweden — (By Telephone to Stockholm)—A German force of between 2,000 and 2,500 men today faced the choice of annihilation, surrender or a fighting retreat into Sweden from Narvik, the Norwegian iron ore port and the northern outpost of the German occupation army.

German troops and British occupation forces were reported fighting in the streets of Narvik.

A small German force had fought its way across the rugged snow-covered mountains to the Swedish frontier.

The main German force is based on the bluff Rombak Heights, across the fjord from Narvik, its line of retreat covered by the big guns of British warships.

The way from Narvik to Sweden is dotted with German and Norwegian dead, lying in the snow.

More than 1,000 German, Norwegian and British dead lie at the bottom of Narvik harbor.

The harbor itself is the graveyard of some 40 German, British and Norwegian warships and German, British, Norwegian and neutral merchants ships. My information is that among these ships is a British cruiser.

Declares 'Easy Money' Lure Led Him to Jail

Carnegie Tech Grad and High-Salaried Executive Sorry Now for Part In Schmutzler Slugging, Robbery.

By JANE WILLIAMS

The lure of "easy money" led Vincent A. Carbeau, 28, former Carnegie Tech man, from a promising career in Ellwood, City, Pa., to the dismal cell block in Richland county jail, where he awaits grand jury hearing on a charge of armed robbery.

Carbeau, a high-salaried executive of an Ellwood industrial plant, stood at the iron bars of the bull pen in county jail this morning, dressed in the blue overalls and striped shirt which all prisoners wear. Yesterday, when he appeared in municipal court for arraignment, he wore a well-tailored blue suit.

He frankly discussed his participation in the North Main street robbery of Philip Schmutzler, veteran cafe proprietor and an uncle by marriage of Carbeau's, who was held up at the point of a gun, slugged and robbed of $1,240. He is said by police to have been the "finger man" and to have held the bandit car in readiness while his two companions, William Justine,

VINCENT CARBEAU

28, and Rocco Cusato, 24, approached and robbed Schmutzler.

Carbeau, according to Ellwood City sources, is a member of a wealthy and prominent family of that small city. He is a college man, active in the affairs of his community and considered by his townspeople "one of the nicest and most promising young men in the city."

Since his arrest in Ellwood City Monday and his return to Mansfield, prominent citizens of his home town have telegraphed a desire to help Carbeau in any manner possible. He has never been in trouble in his life and had never seen the inside of a jail until his arrest this week, he said.

Family Owns Plant.

Judge Clarence Ahl of Bucyrus, who handed down the decision, said the final figure was reached after eliminating illegally cast ballots.

AMONG THE NEUTRALS

Rumania Leases Timberland; Yugoslavia Starts Clean-Up

(By Associated Press)

BUCHAREST — The Rumanian senate provisionally accepted today a government bill to give Germany a 30-year lease on almost 100,000 acres of timber—despite testimony of army officers that the lease would jeopardize national defense.

Ionescu Sisesti, minister of agriculture, defended the bill on grounds that it was part of an economic understanding with Germany which greatly benefitted Rumania.

Military experts said the vast forest reserves in central Rumania constituted a natural defense line.

High ranking officers declared that enactment of the bill would be a great strategical error, allowing Germany to send a large corps of experts and workmen into forests located at "the most vulnerable spot in the country," on the old Rumanian-German border.

Sisesti said the Germans should be allowed to build a railroad and establish factories there to carry out lumber operations.

Germany previously had protested Bucharest's embargo on wheat exports and temporary stoppage of oil shipments and, it was acknowledged in official quarters, Rumania is in an extremely difficult position.

The action which Rumania took Monday to fortify herself by storing for her own use such vital commodities as wheat and oil paradoxically was seen as having the contrary effect of further straining relations with Germany.

Dr. Karl Clodius, head of the German trade delegation which has been negotiating here for weeks, was said to have complained that the Rumanian government's new restrictive measures violated German-Rumanian trade agreements which the Nazis insist

MAP SIDEWALK IMPROVEMENTS

City Officials Announce Plan to Build 15,000 Feet of New Concrete Walks.

Renewal of the city-wide WPA sidewalk improvement program will start May 1, it was announced today by Service-Safety Director C M Crafton.

Some 50 property owners, taking advantage of the opportunity to have sidewalks repaired without cost of labor have already contracted to participate in the program, Crafton said.

The proposed improvements include the construction of 15,000 square feet of sidewalks in the southwest part of the city.

Under the program, which has been conducted in Mansfield the past three years, property owners are charged 14 cents per square foot for the new walks, representing only the cost of the materials.

L. L Kochenderefer, city sidewalk inspector said a WPA proposal was being drafted by engineers and will be submitted to state WPA officials in Columbus for approval as soon as completed.

On recommendations from WPA officials, Kochenderfer said, premixed concrete will be used in all construction this year in order to speed up the work.

As the result of the decision to follow the suggestion, Crafton said a supplemental contract will be drafted with Kalmerten-Baer, Inc., which has the contract to supply the city with the concrete, for a lower price than specified in the contract.

The firm cut the price to $6.75 per cubic yard, Crafton said, so the city could meet other costs. The contract had stipulated a price of $7.75 per yard.

Nazis Succeed In Splitting Norway Into 4 Sections

(By International News Service)

STOCKHOLM—Splitting Norway into four sections, swiftly advancing German troops reached the Swedish frontier east of Kongsvinger, Trondheim and Riksgraensen today, bringing the Scandinavian campaign dangerously close to this nervously neutral land.

Reports to Stockholm which told of these advances also indicated the Germans had massed a tremendous air armada at Trondheim on the Norwegian coast for a possible aerial drive against Allied landing forces and British home bases.

(Editor's note: A Norwegian military communique said that Norwegian troops had attacked German detachments in southeastern Norway, with successful counter-assaults also carried out by ski troops at Lake Mjoesa. German parachute troops were annihilated

American Shipping Reduced More Than Half by War

NEUTRAL BARS AND BLOCKADE HINDER TRADE

Combat Area Extension and British Ban Cut Trade $1,300,000,000.

By ANDRUE BERDING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON—Great Britain's blockades in the Atlantic and Pacific, coupled with President Roosevelt's extension of the combat area forbidden to American ships, have interrupted or hampered American foreign trade involving nearly $1,300,000,000.

Other wartime hazards and restrictions—the threat of German raiders, a Japanese blockade in the far east, the "cash and carry" provisions of the Neutrality act—boost the figures even higher.

Experts here estimate that more than half of the country's foreign trade has been either eliminated or affected. The 1939 foreign trade total was $3,177,344,138.

The combat area keeps American shipping from carrying goods to the country's principal market, northern and central Europe, where American exports totaled $1,172,948,023 last year.

Early Increase.

(The commerce department reported yesterday that American exports during the first seven war months had increased 33 per cent. Part of this increase, however, was accounted for prior to the strict blockades and before the first—or central European—combat zone was proclaimed. Another portion antedated the recent extension of the zone to include northern Europe.)

What sections of the world are left comparatively unobstructed to American trade?

Asia, except for Neutrality act restrictions applying to belligerent possessions. Total exports to Asia last year were $560,796,160.

Oceania, embracing Australia, New Zealand, British Oceania and French Oceania, to which exports totaled $79,505,231. Neutrality act provisions apply here, however, and German submarines or surface raiders may legally halt shipments of contraband.

Ship to Africa.

Africa, to which America exported $115,110,354 worth of goods. Here, too, there are restrictions relating to the belligerents.

Not even the New World is free of restrictions. American ships may not go to certain portions of Canada and they may not carry war materials to Canada, to the British or French West Indies.

By contrast, American trade elsewhere in the western hemisphere is generally free. To North America exports totaled $806,552,026, and to South America $329,385,892, an aggregate for the hemisphere of $1,135,937,918

CITIES HEALTHY

KENT—(AP)—Living in the country no longer is any assurance of rosy-cheeked youngsters' health, according to Dr. A. G. De Weese, director of Kent State university's health service.

"Students from the cities are generally more healthy than students from rural areas," he said. "Well-rounded school health programs and a more varied diet are chief causes for advance in health in metropolitan districts."

MAPS SEWAGE PLANT NEEDS

Turner Says Equipment Now Inadequate, Claims $30,000 More Needed.

capacity 30 per cent. Turner said today he "doubted very much" if the increase in digestion equipment, suggested by Browne engineers, would be sufficient.

Turner also pointed out the lack of available air at the plant for the treatment process. He has repeatedly called this to the attention of officials.

By passing raw sewage before entering the plant is another problem that should be given immediate attention, the superintendent explained.

It was explained however, that the condition could be remedied by removing roof drains from the sanitary sewer system, which would eliminate the excessive storm water flow.

A survey of roof drains connected to the city's sewers is now being conducted by WPA and it is expected that the city will take steps to have illegal connections removed when the survey is completed.

A proposal for wage increases for plant personnel was also included in the report, Turner, pointing out that it was the understanding that when the original salary schedule was set up for sewage plant employes that increases were to be made.

"There is a growing feeling among the personnel that something should be done about this, and we wish to bring it to your attention at an early date so that no disturbance will occur," Turner wrote.

The proposed increase would boost the total plant payroll to $14,620 annually. Salaries are now listed at $12,320.

Chief raises include a $440 annual increase for Turner, $300 each for Lester Linham, chief operator and garbage plant superintendent, and G. V. Sowers, record clerk, and a $360 annual raise for Earl Hoover, electrician and maintenance employe.

FREDERICKTOWN COUPLE TAKE TRIP SOUTH FOR HONEYMOON

FREDERICKTOWN—A beautiful bridal gown of chenille lace with insets of net was worn by Miss Helen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, when she became the bride of Ameen Ritchey son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ritchey.

The St. Vincent de Paul's church of Mt. Vernon was the scene of the nuptial high mass sung by Father William Moran at 9 o'clock Monday morning

The bride appeared in a princess fitted gown with short puff sleeves, a square neckline and an extremely full skirt which ended in a long train, over which fell a veil of illusion. She carried an arm bouquet of Souvenier roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Josephine Ritchey of Utica, a cousin of the bridegroom, wore a floor length gown of aquamarine embroidered net over a rustling taffeta slip identical to that of her dress, and Briarcliff roses in an arm bouquet fashioned the flowers.

Sperry Ritchey served his brother as best man. Charles Dager and James Ritchey of Utica seated the guests.

The ceremony was followed by a breakfast given at the Del Mar hotel Ferdericktown by the bride's parents. Covers were placed for 60 guests. The couple left at noon for a two week wedding trip which will take them to Washington, D. C., and through the southern states. Mr. Ritchey is a graduate of the local high school and is now associated with his father in the Fredericktown Ice and Dairy company. Mrs. Ritchey is also a graduate of the local high school and for some time has been employed as bookkeeper for the Ritchey Ice company.

GRADS WINNERS OF FIRST TILT IN SCHOOL ROW

Blue Jay One-Room School Dispute Stirs Gilead Township Voters.

MT. GILEAD — Middle-aged graduates of Blue Jay school in Gilead township today had won the first round in their fight for local autonomy in supervising the locally-noted one-room schoolhouse.

Henry Lepp, of Edison, president of the county school board announced postponement until May 11 of the board's recent action in proposing a school redistricting plan eliminating several rural school districts as independent units.

Gilead township school district got under the wire on April 8 with a petition signed by taxpayers remonstrating against the change.

Two sections of the general code affecting school matters were quoted as the county board maintained its right to proceed with the school district changes under a provision naming new districts and the rural board claimed a mere "transfer" under another provision.

At issue is the area in which petition signers must jot their names. The protesting petition now in the hands of the county board claims the document should have been signed by taxpayers of the old and the proposed new district.

Halted temporarily by the rural board's employment of an attorney to fight the change are appointment of school boards for the new district, and the details of property transfer on the tax duplicates.

The Gilead district battle rallied around Blue Jay school, near here, for which old residents claim a peculiar power of instilling education in the days before modern roads raised the centralized school.

A whimsical twist was given the controversy when Mrs. Norman Long of Edison, defeated the county school spelling champion, Helen Wright of Johnsville, in an oldster-youngster spelling contest Saturday night. The school champion had been determined Friday.

BLAMES PLIGHT ON 'EASY MONEY'

Carnegie Tech Graduate, High-Salaried Executive Sorry for Schmutzler Robbery

dent, his father, Louis Carbeau, is vice president and Carbeau himself is purchasing agent. Another executive of the company is Frank Mahoney, former Mansfield man, who recently left the Humphryes Manufacturing company here to take a position with the Ellwood company.

There is neither rhyme nor reason for Carbeau's act. Nor can he explain it to himself. And he is bitterly resentful of the implication that he took his trouble with a flip or cocky attitude.

"Does that make sense?" he demanded this morning. "Believe me I am anything but cocky about this. It seems to me I have made the worst blunder that any human being could make. I have thrown away a promising future, a comfortable home; I have deeply injured the people I love best in the world—do you think I could be flip about that?

Hopes For Leniency.

"I know better than anyone else what I've done," he continued. "I not only committed a serious crime, but I did a despicable thing in betraying a man who was kind and generous. I have spent many happy days at Phil Schmutzler's summer home on the lake. I know the penalty, too, and I'm human enough to hope that I and the other two boys will be treated with some leniency, even though we deserve, and undoubtedly will get prison sentences."

Carbeau bit his lip to hide his emotion. He was asked why, and how, he had become a hold-up man. He flinched at the appellation.

"That's a tough word, isn't it? I can't believe that I come in that classification. I don't know myself how it happened. Justine is a nice sort of chap—he's salesman for an auto agency in Ellwood City—and I've only known him intimately for about six weeks. He's never been in any kind of trouble either.

"We just got to talking the other night about 'easy money' and—" Carbeau looked away and finished his explanation with "I'm so ashamed I don't want to talk about it. Believe me when I say that the minute it was over and we were headed out of this city back to Ellwood, I would have given my right arm if I could have undone it and could have returned the money. But the other boys were involved and it was too late."

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today that Carbeau had told him this also when he was brought to Mansfield under arrest.

He denied that he had any gambling debts to pay, saying that he didn't gamble "except on a very small scale," and that his entire indebtedness wasn't more than $100. In his possession when he was arrested was a check from his company for $300. He said that he never had lived beyond his salary and didn't need the money.

Carbeau has spent considerable time in Mansfield and has a number of acquaintances here among friends of the Schmutzler families.

His case will come before the grand jury next week, along with those of his two companions. He entered a formal plea of not guilty yesterday to the charge of armed robbery.

SIMPSON GETS ASSURANCE OF NEW YORK JOB

G. O. P. Committeeman Looms as Recruit In State Stop-Dewey Move.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA — Republican National Committeeman Kenneth F. Simpson today is a potential recruit for the stop-Dewey movement after a promise here that he will not be deprived of New York state party leadership.

Simpson said the supporters of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey were attempting to purge him in New York state in a maneuver similar to that President Roosevelt directed against several anti-New Deal legislators in 1938. The state casts 92 convention votes.

The New York national committeeman's statement attracted wide interest. He seemed eager to qualify it sufficiently to enable him to go along with the nomination of Dewey for president if the Republican national convention bolts in that direction. But he also smiled his consent to the inference drawn by his questioners that he might be leading a stop-Dewey movement in New York state before convention time, June 24.

Republican party leaders, including Simpson, came here as a committee on arrangements for the Republican national convention and chose their keynote speaker and permanent convention chairman.

Thirty-three year old Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, who is too young to be nominated for the presidency, himself, was named keynoter and temporary chairman, a notable distinction which moves him along favorable consideration in 1944 for a place on the national ticket.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.) was named permanent chairman. Martin is Republican leader of the house. In that job he has won partisan acclaim for masterful direction of the minority attack on the New Deal. Martin has been mentioned occasionally as a presidential dark horse but has small personal interest in the matter.

Yesterday it warmed up to 53 degrees and the mercury slid down the thermometer to 40 during the night, but was back up to 50 this noon.

RICHLAND AAA CORN ACREAGE CUT 10 PER CENT

Allotments Sent to 3,289 Farms in County; Bumper Crop Causes Slash.

Richland county farmers must plant about 3,000 fewer acres of corn this year to qualify for full benefits from the federal crop program, G. L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said yesterday.

Federal allotments which have just gone out to owners and operators of 3,289 farms in the county reduce the total corn acreage from 30,000 acres last year to 26,811 in 1940, a cut of about 10 per cent.

All county farmers can plant 84,886 acres in soil-depleting crops this year, only 200 acres less than last year.

Principal reason for the slash in the corn acreage was last year's bumper crop which built up a huge surplus in the nation and threatened the federal government's "ever normal granary.

An anticipated light wheat crop this year is expected to result in only a slight change in the wheat acreage allotment for the county next fall.

Taylor said the wheat allotments will be mailed to farmers soon. He was unable to predict what the reduction or increase might be.

The federal farm program, handled in Richland county through the AAA office on North Diamond street, pays farmers cash benefits for reducing their acreage of wheat, corn and potato crops and adopting practices that will improve and restore the fertility of their land.

Majority of U. S. Theaters Have Double Shows.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Although multiple feature film programs are the continuing target of attack by various groups throughout the United States, approximately 59% of all American film theaters now play two or more feature-length pictures, the 1940 Film Daily Year Book revealed.

Of the 17,003 film theaters now operating in the U. S.—another 2,029 are closed—10,031 have a socalled dual policy.

Of the 59 per cent 30 per cent follow a consistent multiple feature policy. 29 per cent play double features or single attractions as occasion dictates. Territorial high for double feature is the Northeast's, 72 per cent territorial low, the South's 28 per cent.

The comprehensive statistical picture of the American film industry disclosed that there were 458 actors under term contract to major Hollywood studios last year, while the number of directors so engaged was 117 and writers, 375.

SCIENTIST ENDS LONG FLEA HUNT

Finds Rare Specimen on Mole and Names It for Bug Authority.

FOREST GROVE, Ore.—(AP)—Dr. C. Anderson Hubbard's 5-year itch for a flea is over. He caught it.

The Pacific university biologist, noted for his contributions to the British museum flea collection, found an unfamiliar "skipper" on a deer mouse. It was there by some mistake of nature, so he decided to look for the original carrier. Five years later he found another on a mole shrew. Several moles, all carrying the same strange flea, indicated they were the true hosts.

Hubbard named the new flea "corypsylla Jordani" in honor of Dr. Karl Jordan, famous flea authority and curator of the British museum.

SKULL TREE

Bones Found Deeply Imbedded in Trunk of Pine.

JACKSON, Wyo. —(AP)— About 200 years ago—as Keith Stilson, a Jackson Hole guide, figures it—an Indian was lucky enough to bring home some mountain sheep steak for dinner.

After dressing the carcass the Indian hung the skull on a small tree and forgot about it. Recently, Stilson saw a peculiar growth on a big pine tree and examined it. Completely embedded in the trunk about five feet above ground was the sheep's skull.

Catches Small As Trout Season Opens On Mad River.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Mediocre opening-day trout catches in Mad river, Ohio's only state-stocked trout stream were reported today.

E. L. Wickliff, assistant chief of the state fish management division, said a mid-day survey of 79 fishermen in Logan and Champaign counties yesterday showed an average catch of one and one-half legal length fish per angler.

The trout average 8½ inches, compared with the legal length of seven. Wickliff said one 18-inch rainbow was sighted. The season, with its daily bag limit of six, closes Sept. 15.

The farmers, all veteran potato growers, bought farms in Steuben county, applied Maine methods, and in 1939 produced an average of 300 bushels of potatoes to the acre on an aggregate area of 400 acres.

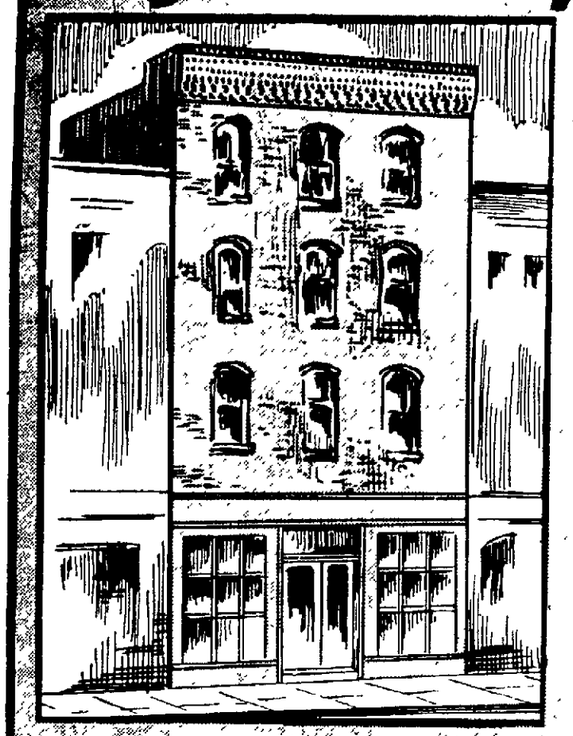
After 75 Years of Honorable and Successful Business Dealing



SCHROER'S STORE IN 1865

Brick by brick from the ground up the founders of Schroer Store in 1865 built a structure in which faith, better merchandise, honest values, and truth in advertising have been the stones but the bedrock foundation upon which this structure rests in plain unadorned honesty.

STORE CLOSED

Store closed all day Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 15, 16 and 17 to mark down prices, engage extra help and complete all preparations for this great sale which begins Thursday, April 18, promptly at 9 o'clock.

SALE BEGINS THURSDAY MORNING — APRIL 18th —

WHAT IS A BARGAIN??

In these days when we read so much of bargains—bargains—it is well to consider just what comprises "value" and the reputation of the store advertising them. After 75 years of business experience we believe a bargain to be an unusual offering caused by an unusual event or condition that actually forces a reduction in price, but not a reduction in quality. On such an occasion one can buy quality at a sacrifice. This is the occasion where we must dispose of thousands of dollars worth of surplus merchandise and expand our trading radius regardless of loss or profits. It will be a sale that is a sale—bargains that are bargains. Don't miss it.

THE REASON FOR THIS GREAT SALE—

Early in the season we sent our buyers into the Grand Rapids, Jamestown, Chicago and other leading markets with instructions to buy the greatest quantities of high grade furniture store merchandise in our history, at which time we had every reason to believe that our business would show its usual yearly sales increase. But owing to the backward season which necessarily retard business, we find our warehouse and sales floors overloaded with thousands of dollars worth of merchandise that must be sold within the next 15 days in order to carry out our policy of never carrying over merchandise from one season to another.

We believe by giving these unusual savings to the people of Mansfield and this community that we will add hundreds of new customers to our store, thereby expanding our trading radius and increasing our future business due to the fine quality of Schroer furniture and unusual bargains offered during this great sale.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1940.

This is the time for the neighborhood lawn roller to be making its annual round.

April passed the half-way point with a record of weather variations that probably pleased everybody—for at least a few minutes.

An effort is being made in Columbus to stop the throwing of paper wads in school rooms, on account of the danger involved—which seems like carrying peace measures to an extreme.

How Industry Makes Jobs

THOSE who are sometimes inclined to wonder why industries cannot be depended upon to supply jobs to all unemployed persons looking for work, have probably given little if any thought to the fact that each job in industry requires a capital investment of approximately $6,500 in factory buildings, machines, tools and other production facilities.

It is unusual, to say the least, for a person seeking industrial employment to have saved up as much as $6,500 as his share in the investment necessary to provide him with a job.

This explains the need for what is called "capital"—which is merely an accumulated reserve from past earnings transformed into buildings and machinery needed to furnish jobs to persons who are able and willing to work.

The basic interests of capital and labor are the same. Where capital in big sums does not exist, comfort, security and opportunities for advancement do not exist. Where capital is inactive, because of fear engendered by political and radical attacks, there is an excess of unemployment and consequent depression.

It should be more generally understood that legitimate capital investment, at a fair return to investors, creates jobs, purchasing power, new taxable wealth, shorter working hours and generally rising standards of living.

Better to Know In Advance

SUCH persons as contemplate either a minor or major offense against the law would be well advised to learn in advance something about the probable penalty in the event of apprehension and conviction.

It appears, according to police, that this was not done by the three young men awaiting grand jury action under accusations of having committed an armed holdup on Mansfield's Main street last Friday.

But, if convicted of the offense charged, the fact that they didn't know the law specifies a long prison term for such an offense is unlikely to mitigate the penalty.

In a minor way, the theft of several bicycles from school grounds a couple of nights ago, probably didn't impress the thieves as an especially serious matter, as theft is among the commonest manifestations of undisciplined childhood.

For parents, and other persons who deal with child problems, however, it is important to make sure that young children understand what is meant by "property rights" and learn about the punishment that results from disregarding these rights.

It is a matter of record that juvenile offenders are most likely to develop into adult criminals, if allowed to shift for themselves, and it is unfair that they should be allowed to grow up without realizing that prison—and possibly the electric chair—lies at the end of the path on which they have started, or consider making a start.

Looking North and South

THE FIFTIETH anniversary of the Pan-American Union, along with the European breakdown, has naturally got people to thinking more about the solidarity of this Western Hemisphere, and incidentally about hemispheric transportation. "Neighboring" is rather idle talk unless the neighbors can get around and see each other.

Water routes are doing very well in this respect, but land routes lag. Thousands of miles of highway have been built, but thousands more are needed to bind the North and South American continents into a well-knit system of transportation, trade and friendly association such as we have already with our northern neighbor, Canada.

In this latter region there is another big project afoot now which deserves general support, and could be accomplished rather quickly. It is the proposed highway up the Pacific coast from Puget Sound through the Canadian coastal strip to Alaska. The Canadian government now seems favorable to that project. It would be fine for the development of Alaska and would also help British Columbia and the Yukon Region.

Books Needed In China

AN APPEAL has come from China for Western books on science, philosophy, history, literature, and so on.

Among the millions of Chinese who fled westward as the Japanese armies moved in from the East, there were thousands of young students. They and their teachers took with them what they could, but in successive removals farther westward their equipment has dwindled almost to nothing. They set up schools again wherever they found temporary rest and peace, but they have been increasingly handicapped without books.

"At the present time," it is explained, "these people are starving for lack of reading matter, and because of the low value of the Chinese dollar and the impossibility of obtaining foreign exchange they are unable to purchase any."

They would welcome single books from individuals or larger quantities sent by educational institutions or publishers.

Spelling Contests Revived

SPELLING bees are becoming popular again. It seems to be human nature to want to know, every once in a while, how words are spelled. Every now and then, just as this good old game seems to be dying down, it is revived by some newspaper or world's fair or something else offering a prize for best-spellers.

This is all very useful and commendable, but possibly spelling is being overdone a little, in comparison with the other important matters of education. There is pronouncing, for instance. It's incredible, what weird pronunciations you hear these days over the radio, and from public speakers.

And grammar, too. Current speech among high school students and graduates is often surprisingly bad. Grammatical rules are presumably taught in the schools, but a good many old-timers complain sadly, even bitterly, about current carelessness or ignorance in putting sentences together so that the words fit.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There is nothing beautiful in seeing a Broadway musical emerge from a mass of raw material, as there is in seeing a sunrise emerge from the daubs of oil on a painter's canvas, but there is a lesson in values to be had from such an experience, and if you haven't anything better to do, I would like to take you over to the Winter Garden, and later to the Broadhurst, for a glimpse of the early rehearsals of a musical review the Shuberts and Mr. Harry Kaufman hope to have ready by April 29.

This Mr. Kaufman is a large individual who came up to Broadway by the way of the cloak and suit trade, and during his wanderings as a suit salesman he learned how to talk. It is this faculty that enables him to go out and talk the top writers into composing his shows for him and the top performers into lending their names to his undertakings. When I say him, I also mean Lee Shubert, who gave Harry his beginnings and brought him along until now he is entering upon his 12th Broadway show.

MR. KAUFMAN wears double-breasted suits and bow-ties with white shirts, but no vests. He likes to bum around with song - writers and entertainers when he isn't cafe-prowling and looking at talent with Lee Shubert, or playing pinochle with this same gentleman. When he faces a group of aspiring applicants, as he must whenever a new chorus is to be considered, he is able to cut through this mass like a sharp-bladed ax. I saw him select 30 boys and girls the other morning from possibly a hundred, and he chose them with hardly more than a "What's your name, Dear? . . . Now walk across the stage. . . . Now take a tap. . . . Just give your name to Harry, Dear."

Later, when these selections reported for actual rehearsals, no changes were made. They were exactly what the doctor ordered.

A man like Harry Kaufman comes up to his present plane from the "looker" stage. He makes up his mind he wants to learn Broadway. He wants to become a showman, a producer. So he hangs around and looks. He sits in on rehearsals. He goes to every show that he can buy or talk his way into. He hangs around with performers, and with directors. He learns by observing. You don't go to college to learn show business. You pick it up from first hand information. Pretty soon you get the idea, perhaps for a line, or a bit, or a piece of scenery, or lighting, and it is accepted. You get another idea for a skit, or perhaps an entire scene, and it is accepted. You work your way into harness, and after while, which means maybe years, and years, and if you're lucky, and know the right people, and they give you a chance.

THIS is pretty much Harry Kaufman's experience. The "right" people he met, and who believed in him, were the Shuberts. Today he has a bankroll, and he has a definite financial interest in most of his shows. I do not know the actual percentage, but he and the Shuberts own all of "Keep Off the Grass," this newest venture.

Under him he has at least three directors, one with the principals, another with the dancers, a third a sort of supervisor. But he, Harry Kaufman, is the generalissimo, the boss-in-chief. He is a sort of bulky, moon-faced seismographic instrument that registers all the faintest (and loudest) rumblings and hitches and discords that have, and do, arise during the processing of a show.

Beware of the Cobra!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LOAFING down from my cabin along a well-loved trail . . . warm, grey earth, quiet and peaceful in the spring-time sun—

Suddenly I tightened . . . leaped aside . . . grabbed my automatic—

For the earth before me had leaped and coiled . . . hissed and sung-g-g . . . and Death is tapping my shoulder—

R-A-T-T-L-E-S-N-A-K-E!

I shoot. I kill. But around the turn in that so amiable earth, another rattler may coil.

That is the risk I take, because I am free and roam the mountains.

THAT happens to be a true incident about my own life. But it is also true of all America today. We are, presumably, a free people, walking down a sunny and friendly path. But in every path there coils a death-dealing viper—the viper of INTOLERANCE.

A book has been written about that. It is, to me perhaps the greatest book that has been written, the greatest sermon that has been preached, in the last twenty years of American life. It gives the source from which all our American intolerance springs . . . from which, eventually, the next American war will spring. It shows the sources of our prejudice—and the greed which makes capital of our prejudice. It shows our stupidity—and the crookedness which capitalizes on our stupidity.

It is not a nice book. It does not use nice language and it tells terrible facts. But you have no more right to turn from its foulness and its terror than you have a right to turn from a broken sewer in front of your own house. For the facts which this book tells are in front of your own house. They are the broken sewer which is YOUR responsibility. They give the putrid sources of that impulse which makes you turn against the little Jew next door . . . The Catholic around the corner . . . the German exile who has moved into your neighborhood.

As long as you gossip . . . as long as you sneer . . . as long as you belittle another race which is not your own—you belong in the gutter. You have no right to democracy. You are false to all that is American. And you need to read this book.

This book is called "King Cobra." It is probably the most shameless and shaming book that has even been written in America. It lays a dog whip across all our shoulders. It reveals us all for the hypocrites which we are.

The man who writes it calls himself Frank Dudley. (Carrick & Evans, New York, Publishers). He is not Frank Dudley. He is one of the most brilliant and penetrating editors these United States have ever seen. But because of your—and your—and your prejudices, he dare not write under his own name, this abominable epic of the South and the North and the West and the East, in which the Ku Klux Klan and similar Hate pageants were born. He must remain anonymous because you wish the Truth to remain anonymous . . . because you cannot as yet, most of you, face Reality . . . that Reality which you create by your own prejudice and stupidity, your own hate and fear and suspicion.

Get "King Cobra"! Get it and read it. And learn what's in yourself. That self which has bred horror in the past—lynchings, burnings, massacres. Get it and learn what may mean the murder of your own son in some world war fired by your stupidity and hate.

Judges Not Infallible.

There is a crying need in our judicial system for a complete overhaul of the charge of contempt, its meaning, its use and its limitations. Originally it contemplated an interference with justice in the trial of a case in progress. Latterly it is employed to include offenses after the trial, as in failure to observe the terms of a decree; but also it has been used or at least attempts are persistently made to use it to clothe courts in an immunity which no agency operating in the democratic tradition can properly appropriate to itself.

Robes and a seat above the bar no not make infallible creatures of men, as the language of our appellate courts in many a reversal attests. When the press is unable to suggest, after the event, that a miscarriage of justice has, in its opinion, taken place, we have gone far along a road away from the American system of free institutions.—Detroit News.

Cancer Research—Of Mice and Men.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN A large, new, beautiful building in a suburb of Washington, D. C., a score of men in white coats are carefully tending a thousand colonies of mice. They take most tender care of them, and when a new litter is born, each is immediately identified by punching a notch in the ear. One kind of a punch means it is a cancer mouse, another kind that its pedigree is free from cancer. All sorts of curious tricks of our enemy, cancer, are revealed by the study of these humble little animals.

Spontaneous cancer is not common in the lower animals. Most of them do not live long enough to get into the cancer age, so it was a great stimulus to research when it was found that the mouse was susceptible to cancer and that cancer could be implanted in mice. The mouse is, therefore, the favorite experimental animal for research in cancer.

The influence of heredity on cancer is shown by mice experiments. A two-year-old mouse is like a person of 65 or 70 years. Observers can, therefore, study many generations of mice, representing thousands of years of human life, within a comparatively short time.

Can Produce It.

Taking mice and selecting cancerous animals as parents, a strain can be produced in which 80 to 90 per cent of the off-spring develop cancer. On the other hand, if the selection is away from cancer, strains can be produced in which only one or two per cent develop cancer.

There is evidence that the tendency to form cancer in man may be inherited, but the tendency is so indirect that heredity of cancer need not be a source of worry to any person.

We spoke last week of public education as one of the three modern weapons against cancer. Another of these three weapons is research.

Research into the nature and cause of cancer is being carried on in many parts of the world. There are a number of institutions in the United States devoted exclusively to this work.

The State Institution at Buffalo, N. Y., is outstanding as a center of cancer research, as are the Lankenau hospital, Philadelphia; the Memorial hospital, New York City; the Huntington hospital, Boston; the Barnard Free Skin and Cancer hospital, St. Louis, and the Strong Memorial hospital, Rochester, N. Y.

Cell Chemistry Studied.

The chemistry of the cancer cell is being studied, also the effects of the internal secretions of the body from the ductless glands on the activities of cancer cells.

A feature of great significance is what might be called the "immortality" of cancer cells. A small bit of cancer can be implanted in the mouse and grow to enormous proportions. Some of these cells can be implanted into another mouse and again grow, and so on, so that if you calculated the actual weight of cancer tissue that sprang from a few cells, it would amount to tons. It does not age or slow down in its rate of growth. We are dealing, therefore, not with a sickly disease tissue but with one which possesses tremendous vigor and power of growth.

Another suggestive line of research has to do with the ability of certain chemicals, such as derivatives of coal tar, to produce cancer when brought into contact with epithelial tissue.

It may be said finally about research in cancer, that even if nothing new is discovered, we know enough so that if the methods at hand were applied to early cases, and the public were educated to seek treatment early, a great reduction could be made in the incidence of the disease.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Over the vital question of selling latest types of army airplanes to the Allies, Secretary of War Woodring was in such disagreement with his chief that there was a near break in the cabinet.

The situation was this: President Roosevelt had determined that the best air defense of the United States was to increase industrial aircraft production through selling latest types of planes to the Allies. Secretary of the Navy Edison, Assistant Secretary of War Johnson, plus various high military and naval men, agreed.

But Harry Woodring demurred. Furthermore with only one day left before he had to state his views to the house military affairs committee, Woodring still was determined to tell the committee that he opposed the president.

Be Loyal or Resign.

FINALLY, a meeting was called in Woodring's office. Around him sat Major General Arnold, chief of the army air corps, General Marshall, chief of staff, Assistant Secretary Johnson, and Major Wilton B. Persons. Suddenly the telephone rang—the private line which connects the White House with all members of the cabinet.

Woodring picked up the receiver, and those around him could hear the president's voice over the phone. It was about 10 p. m. and Roosevelt had left a dinner to call his secretary of war. He was brief and to the point. Those seated nearby could hear him say:

"You can go along with my program or get out."

Woodring started to argue, but the president cut him off, abruptly hung up. His secretary of war went white in the face.

Then White House stenographer Henry Kannee appeared with the notes of that day's press conference, in which Roosevelt had discussed the sale of airplanes to the allies. The president had instructed Kannee to read them to Woodring, so the war secretary would surely understand his policy.

But Woodring said he didn't want to hear the notes. This brought protests from the other members of the war council, who said he was obliged to listen to the president's views. So Kannee read the stenographic record.

Finally, after almost three hours of debate, the meeting adjourned at 1 a. m. Woodring had decided to go along with the others.

Debt Limit Dodge.

INNER circle master minds have proposed a new plan to Roosevelt to get around the $45,000,000,000 national debt limit without either raising it or increasing taxes.

With congress upping farm, WPA and other appropriations, and with sentiment growing for a new public works program, the question of what to do about the debt limit is becoming acute. Because this is an election year the congressional boys are afraid to tackle the problem squarely by boosting the limit or piling on more taxes. An indirect stratagem is what they are looking for, and the New Dealers now have it.

One of the big untouched nest eggs in the treasury is the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund. It has been repeatedly suggested, only a few weeks ago by Reserve Board Chairman Marriner Eccles, that this hoard be used for relief and other spending purposes. But every time the proposal has been made, Secretary Morgenthau has jumped on it with both feet. Never would he permit the money to be spent without express authorization from congress, he has said, even though it is not needed.

But now the inner circle has a scheme which would save Morgenthau's face. They would use the fund to retire part of the national debt. That is, they would retire $2,000,000,000 worth of outstanding debt, so that instead of the total being near the $45,000,000,000 limit it would only be slightly over $43,000,000,000.

That would leave room within the statutory limit for $2,000,000,000 of new spending, ample to cover the $300,000,000 tacked on to the farm bill, the additional $500,000,000 desired for WPA, and the $350,000,000 to $500,000,000 proposed for a new PWA program.

The New Dealers admit their plan is roundabout and that it would be simpler to divert the $2,000,000,000 directly into the general spending fund. But with Morgenthau opposing, they see no alternative.

Furthermore, they predict that if a Republican regime comes into power next year, this is exactly what it will do to balance the budget.

Countered Fitzmaurice, "How about the Danish Rose?"

Old Burying Ground

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR SOME TIME I have been interested in a certain hilltop where tall evergreens are growing. The last time I passed that way curiosity led me three hundred yards up a rocky grade on foot to investigate. An old abandoned road, not used for fifty years perhaps, ran along the edge of a crumbled sandstone wall. Many of the stones were buried beneath the turf, others were overgrown by the hardy myrtle vine.

I crossed what was once a road and a fence and came upon some fallen mossgrown gravestones. Farther west, some still were standing. The little plot was thickly overgrown with dewberry briars, long trailing wild strawberry vines; beneath the trees the floor was thick with spruce leaves and pine needles that blotted out the grass completely.

I partially uncarthed a marble slab and read "Beneath this stone our Father lies—a Soldier of the Revolution, born April 1, 1752, died Feb. 10, 1842." I saw another, "Here lies our loving son Reuben, born Aug. 8, 1800, died Jan. 1, 1810." A little verse was inscribed to his memory but it was too weather-beaten to be deciphered. There were no imposing shafts of glittering marble—only plain, modest stones, many of native shale. There had been no burial since 1880. The mouldering grassy heaps all angled toward the east, much like those of my own Pennsylvania Dutch ancestors.

From all the inscriptions that I read—and I tried to find them all—no one buried there had any shadow upon his character. No shiftless fathers, no unfaithful mothers, no thankless sons or daughters—only the better part was inscribed upon these modest tablets. I stood there in the quiet nook and thought of Charles Lamb's remark, "Where be all the bad people buried?"

I listened to the wind blowing with a moaning, swishing sound through the pine and spruce branches. "For from the madding crowd," indeed it seemed, and a fitting spot, this sequestered burying ground for the bones of pioneers.

"Their name, their years, spelt
by the unlettered Muse.
The place of fame and elegy
supply:
And many a holy text around
she strews,
That teach the rustic moralist
to die."

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Elaine," Melvyn asked lightly, "did you ever hear that saying, 'All's fair in love and war'?"

The implication of his words drew her slowly from out the chair and she stared horrified at him. She raised her hand in a pleading, pathetic gesture. "But Melvyn, surely you wouldn't . . ."

"I won't do anything to help you," he said stubbornly. "Why should I? I love you and I'm the sort of man who gets what he wants. If I didn't know that deep down inside of you you love me I might help you, but as it is - well, I'll support Helen in any story she tells Eric!"

Before Elaine could utter a word he had picked up his bags and with a casual "I'll be seeing you later" he strode out of the apartment. Elaine heard the door slam, too dazed to call him back, too confused to think coherently, conscious only of the thought that Melvyn's presence in the house would complicate matters, aware wth a feeling of dread and shame that he had already made her position more difficult.

But no, perhaps he hadn't. Surely Eric would not believe any story Helen's greedy mind could conceive. Eric loved her, had chosen to forsake a life of ease and luxury just to make her his wife; surely a man capable of such sacrifice was also capable of understanding, capable of forgiving her in the same generous manner she had forgiven him when he proved himself a coward.

She paced restlessly about the apartment trying to think what to do. She knew she should be feeling furious with Melvyn, and that if she wished to avoid a repetition of the kiss the most sensible thing she could do would be to have it out with Jane that night, to make it crystal clear to her that any interest she might have in Melvyn was of a platonic nature. But though she was keenly aware of the right thing to do she was somewhat loathe to take this action.

In the first place, she could not truthfully say she was angry with him. In a way she felt sorry for him, after all, she knew what it meant to love a person who apparently did not share the same feeling for you. The fact that everything was not going to turn out in just the way she had hoped it would could not in any way minimize the suffering she had endured, and the memory of that suffering made it possible for her to understand just how Melvyn felt.

And in the second place she could not tell Jane about the kiss because creating a scene over it would only have the effect of both hurting and antagonizing Melvyn's sister, and unless she was willing to leave the apartment she could not run the risk of that. Yes, the best thing to do under the circumstances was to dismiss all thoughts of the kiss from her mind with the determination to prevent similar occurrences.

The little clock on the table chimed 9:30 and Elaine suddenly realized she would be late for her singing lesson. At first she had thought to remain at home for the morning to unpack Eric's things and to help Melvyn get settled when he arrived. But since Eric's bags could be unpacked almost any time, and since Melvyn had made it impossible for her to offer assistance, she decided the best thing for her to do would be to leave the house for a little while.

It was a full hour before she presented herself at the studio, however, for the dishes still had to be washed, and the apartment was in need of a good cleaning. As she walked up the stoop to Monticelli's house she knew that her eccentric teacher would be furious because she was late. And when Monticelli became furious. . . . !

"I should kick you!" he bellowed, stepping back from the door. "How dare you keep the great Monticelli waiting? Are you an artiste? No! Are you even a singer? No! I should throw you out! But I won't. Ha, you do not run away and leave my studio filled with your crazy friends!"

Elaine followed him down the hall, wondering as to the real reason he was so furious. Deciding that it was because of her "crazy" friends, whoever they were, she dismissed the subjected and launched into an explanation of her tardiness. But she had spoken only a few words before he silenced her with an impatient gesture and flung wide the studio door.

"It is your duty to arrive on time!" he raged, stamping into the room. He pointed a trembling finger at Clara and Betty who sat at the piano thumping out an untuneful version of "Chopsticks." "If you had arrived on time they would not be here driving me crazy."

"You were crazy before we ever met you," Betty Jordon declared frankly, glancing up from the piano. "But you're kind of cute at that. Hi, Elaine!"

Clara sniffed reprovingly. "I thought we had decided to ignore the creature," she reminded Betty. "After all, she didn't write you a single letter, and she never did show up at Dad's store."

Betty nodded her head as though she had forgotten about this and her eyes flashed mischievously. "That's right. She's a heel. But if we're supposed to be ignoring her, why are we here?"

"You're probably trying to haunt me," Elaine supplied the answer to this perplexing question. She smiled at the two girls and nonchalantly crossed the room to them. Had they arrived any other morning but this she knew she would have been surprised at seeing them, but so many other things had happened that she took their presence for granted, thinking that nothing else would ever surprise her again.

Ignoring the still sputtering Monticelli, she dragged a chair over to the piano and sat down. "Now, will you stop being silly long enough to tell me just what you're doing here, how you came, and why Betty is out of the hospital?"

Betty chuckled and poked Clara so hard that she almost fell from the bench. "She calls us silly and then begins to ask questions like that!" She sighed and then explained as one would explain to a child.

"In the first place, I left the hospital last night and came up on the train with the very dashing, very handsome, very lovable Dr. Stuart. In the second place, even a fractured skull heals after four weeks, and although I'm still wearing a bandage under the fantastic hat, which only Clara would think of buying, I'm quite healthy. And in the third place. . . ."

"In the third place," Clara interrupted, "although you forgot that we ever existed, we still remembered you. Dad's going to put a program on the air and I've talked him into letting you sing on it. So, to be brief, Betty and I came right over here instead of over to your apartment because we expected you would be studying instead of lazily oversleeping."

Elain laughed as Clara subsided, gasping for breath. And then, remembering that she also had some explaining to do, launched into a narration of all that had happened to her since the day she left the hospital.

Clara showed great annoyance when Elaine had finished her story. "Do you mean to say that you chose to work in a restaurant rather than in my dad's store? Why Elaine, whatever possessed you to do such a thing?"

At first Elaine was inclined to laugh at Clara's irritation but then, as she looked at her friend's flushed face and snapping eyes, she realized that Clara was really angry and stifled her mirth. She patted Clara's hand and looked straight into her eyes.

"Clara, did your father really need another girl or did he consent to hire me simply because I was your friend?"

Clara sniffed and turned her head to indicate that she would not accept such an excuse. But after a silence, she fidgeted nervously on the seat. "What difference does that make anyway?" she queried. "Dad has more money than he knows what to do with and if it can't be spent to help out a friend, what good is it?"

Goering Falcon Expedition To Greenland "Significant"

BOONTON, N. J.—(AP)—Capt. R. Luff Meredith, U. S. Army Air Corps retired, recalled today he deemed it "considerably significant" in view of Germany's invasion of Denmark that Field Marshall Goering sent 'Falcon expeditions' to Greenland and Iceland in 1937 and 1938.

Meredith, one of the nation's leading Falconers and a pilot during the World war, expressed belief the expeditions might have been intended to obtain information for future action.

He said that although Goering was a known Falconer "it seemed strange that he should put the government to such an expense when it was undergoing such economic and political change."

Five Germans stayed in Greenland six months and returned after capturing six Gyrfalcons, Meredith said, adding:

"They had sufficient time to uncover a lot of general and specific information about Greenland."

Meredith said he received a letter last August from a friend in Ivigtut, Greenland, who commented on the position the United States might take if Germany attempted to invade Greenland and concluded:

"Take care you are not too late."

Meredith said that contrary to popular conception Greenland was not a desolate, sub-zero wasteland. Much of the country, he said, was covered with vegetation in the summer time.

He visited Greenland on a Falcon expedition in 1937.

LEAVENWORTH, Kans. - (AP) - Leavenworth has parking meters. A patrolman saw a farmer park his car and walk away without placing a nickel in the machine.

"Nickel, please," said the officer.

"Young fellow," replied the farmer, "I read what it says on that contraption. It says that I can park here for two hours for five cents. Well, I have only been here 10 minutes and when the two hours are up I will put in the nickel." And that's what he did.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 100 and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Pollyannas Revealed at Bridge Party Held at Janis Home Last Night; Groups to Be Entertained Next Week.

Shopping Around...

With MARIANNE

THE good old summer time should prove to be better than ever this year, after we've waited so long for even a slight inkling of it. . . . And perhaps that's why we look forward to the warm weather and get so excited about fresh and colorful light togs. . . .

Marianne

The downtown stores are featuring a wide variety in styles of summer frocks. . . . Spun rayons in aqua, light blue, gray and white are pretty—several models I saw while shopping yesterday were trimmed with contrasting stitching and belts, while a white dress had a panel of a navy blue sheer material inset down the front, trimmed with stripes of white silk braid—a bright red belt and shoulder flower completed this patriotic frock. . . . Plain, printed and striped chambray dresses are also popular in the fashion parade, as are plain and printed sheer voiles.

If you're looking for something to give a new touch to an old outfit, your worries are over. . . . Just the thing for a plain colored dress (be it dark or light), is a gay set composed of matching belt, bolero jacket and tiny hat of bright roman striped bengaline. . . . Or if you'd like something a little more dressy, ensembles in pastel-tinted shantung are also smart—these combine a brief bolero, sash and wrap-around turban. . . . And perhaps there are some occasions when you wish your favorite formal had a jacket, and if so, you'll be delighted with the tailored ones of white pique, which are made with wide revers as a style note. . . . Just in case your dress doesn't need a jacket, but a collar instead, you'll find about the perkiest ones ever in the new "Smarty" styles, which are plain tailored of white pique and have really streamlined bows of striped taffeta ribbon.

Other new notes—either for a dress you might want to rejuvenate or one you're making yourself—are found in the costume jewelry designed by Martha Sleeper, Hollywood actress.... Dolly necklaces, bracelets and pins would lend a feminine, dressy touch to any ensemble—they're carved in lace designs in unpolished catalyn, and the shades include hot pink, powder blue, dusty rose and white. . . . Because they look so much like real flowers, folks might think your necklace, bracelet or clip was picked from the summer garden if you wear one of Martha Sleeper's water lily or rhododendron jewelry ensembles. . . . These pretty flowers come in pink or blue with touches of yellow and have green acetate leaves and chain.

PEARL NECKLACES are always popular, and it seems that the more strands you wear, the more stylish you are. . . . One of the local shops is showing necklaces of white seed beads, having 45 strands gracefully twisted together. . . . As a colorful touch for navy blue and black dresses, as well as summer whites, are those glass bead necklaces and bracelets, which combine multi-colored strands in a four-color twist.

Lapel gadgets are still a fashion "must" for suits, and the selection of them in the downtown stores seems to become more intriguing every day. . . . Enameled Mexican figures in bright colors set with brilliants, and shimmering crystal flowers set in gold are attractive. Martha Sleeper has designed some wooden novelties for the sport suit and dress—these are heads of dogs, horses, "the bad wolf" and the "early bird" carved from light wood and decorated with colorful and humorous touches.

* * *

HAVE you seen the umbrella purses they're featuring downtown now? The large pocketbooks are made of pink, light blue, navy, red and beige fabric and are lined with waterproof gingham in harmonizing plaids. . . . Then there are umbrellas to match the lining that can be carried in the purses . . . Also featured in spring and summer purses are those made of old-fashioned carpet rags. . . . In natural or multi-colored stripes, these purses have zipper closings and can be put in the tub with your laundry and washed to look like new.

* * *

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Seeking Spiritual Girl

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The Reverend Anderson Jardine, who basked in the spotlight a couple of years ago, when he married the abdicated King of England and Mrs. Wallis Simpson, crowned a new type of queen in an hotel in Washington, a day or two ago.

His latest quest was for a girl who would answer to the title of "Miss Spiritual Washington," but as she was found in Alexandria, Virginia, seven miles down the Potomac, her title was construed informally as "Miss Spiritual Greater Washington."

The young lady, Miss Ellen Burton, who was judged the fairest, must compete with ten other "Miss Spirituals" from other cities. The final selection will be made soon in New York City.

The title of the film, for whose leading role the girls competed, is "Wape Up, America, to Indecency." The mission of the film, as stated in the press, is calculated to arouse the nation against salacious literature.

Miss Burton still in her teens, and resident of an Alexandria suburb, answered: "I live with my mother and grandmother in the suburbs. My grandmother is ill, and I have been looking after her." She has been out of high school a year, and attended St. Mary's Catholic school in Alexandria.

Two Reverend gentlemen and one veteran camera man formed this triple judgment of Paris. The camera man explained to a reporter: "Her face has a formation that will film beautifully. There is sorrow in her countenance. It lends her a spiritual look."

Undeniably, Miss Burton is a very pretty girl. Whether she is really in earnest about taking the Hollywood job will be decided by the mother and grandmother with whom she lives.

Interviewed, Dr. Jardine could not exactly define the qualities looked for in the spiritual heroine. He was positive about the drinking, smoking, living at home, and going to church. And continued: "You can hardly describe it; it's something akin to beauty of the soul. It's just there and is bound to come out."

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, April 18.

Particularly solidifying and crystallizing planetary influences predominate on this day, making it memorable for reaping rich rewards for the fidelity and efficiency of past performances. Elders may assist in this by offering promotion, other forms of preferment and cooperation, with the opportunity to increase the possessions. Such openings should be grasped and engineered with moderation and stability, not with excitement and impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of solid achievements, in which firm foundations will be built for the future fortunes and career. This may be the result of past worthy endeavors. Elders and superiors will be in the mood to bestow tokens of preferment, offering opportunity for increasing the possessions and increment. But be not carried away by excitement, impulse or extravagance. Grasp with moderation and appreciation this stabilizing influence.

A child born on this day may be studious, systematic, profound and trustworthy, and have practical constructive ability, although at times it may be prone to prodigality, impetuosity or bursts of temper.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

The next instant the door opened, and Miss Carman came back into the room, carrying a bulky pile of flat paper files which she put upon the cleared tea table with a sigh of relief.

"I cannot let these go out of my possession," she said, "but you are at liberty to copy them here if you wish. I have blank sheets of paper, pencils, rulers, pens, and ink in my desk yonder. As you have probably guessed, there are maps among these papers which you ought to copy."

"Dear Miss Carman," I said a bit unsteadily, "I cannot tell you what this gracious courtesy of yours means to us. We never can thank you sufficiently."

A smile which had a touch of mischief in it curved the little old woman's lips.

"And I never can thank you enough," she said, "for letting me share so thrilling a secret as you have just confided to me. There isn't much excitement in an old woman's life, you know. Indeed," she added reflectively. "My whole life has been rather humdrum. I have enjoyed a great deal of pleasure looking over the archives of my family, some of whom, goodness knows, had exciting adventures enough, and now it thrills me tremendously to know that those old records in my hands can help my country, as you say they can."

"I have no doubt of it," I returned emphatically. "You see, my father, when he discovered the presence of the men in the attic, checked with the guards surrounding the house and realized that there must be a secret and unsuspected ingress into the attic which these men must have discovered. The men are now incommunicado, and there are guards stationed in the attic. But we must find out the location of the secret entrance in order that my father's guards may be able to cope with the marauders."

"How did you find out about me?" she asked, and I guessed that she was postponing the climax of my story, saying and savoring it as she might a Christmas box of bonbons.

"Of course, the first question in my father's mind," I said, "was the name of the family who originally owned the house. This he obtained from Mr. Bates, the real estate agent, and he also found out that you were a direct descendant of the original owners. He said also that he would tell you we were coming to see you."

"Well, he didn't," she answered a bit tartly. "He's tried to arrange interviews with me before, and I always refused him, so he probably thought better of it. I'm glad he didn't. He might have given me a wrong idea of what you wanted of me. The last time he wanted to arrange an interview it was with a woman who wanted to buy my furniture, and not a piece of that will be sold as long as I have a breath in my body and a cent to buy a piece of bread."

Her face was suddenly dark and fierce, but in a moment it cleared again, and she began to untie the bulky parcel she had laid upon the table.

"We might as well get started," she said.

Garden Graph

MODERN WAY TO PLANT POTATOES

If you are making a new vegetable garden and turning under sod, it will be a good plan to plant potatoes this first year. Potatoes will grow on sod land, if it is well worked, and by next season the soil will be in good condition for other vegetables.

If planting potatoes, however, plant them in the modern way. This new method calls for planting the seed potatoes six inches deep in a trench, as shown in today's Garden-Graph. Cover the seed potatoes with 2 inches of soil, as illustrated, and then spread the fertilizer over them, instead of the old method of placing it under them. With the fertilizer sprinkled on top of the two inch covering of soil, the rains will carry the food down as it is needed.

When cutting potatoes for seed purposes, divide so there will be one or two eyes to each piece, and never more than three. Too many eyes will decrease rather than increase the yield.

Answers Children's Questions

By GARRY C. MEYERS, Ph. D.

While on a certain lecture tour, riding on a train, I sat not far from a mother who had two children with her. I should guess the older one was four, the younger three.

These children seemed to have good habits of self-control. They were not destructive. They did not run about to invite the attention of the other passengers. They annoyed no one.

The mother manifested perfect poise. I never have seen anyone more sympathetic toward a little child. She read to them and, when they interrupted her reading to ask a question, she was not disturbed. She always answered patiently. When they tired of the book and it was put away, these children played—one with his toy dog, the other with his elephant—visiting with each other and their mother as if all of them were grown-up.

Answered Each Query.

These children must have asked a hundred questions in three hours, to all of which the mother made careful, cautious answer, without a sign of emotional disturbance in her voice or in her face. One child wondered what their daddy might be doing, whether he would meet them at the station, and whether he would bring the dog along. "What is that?" was often stimulated by things seen from the window. The children often volunteered their own interpretation, adding often to the mother's.

Then from one child or the other there were scores of inquiries which, to this observer, had no relation at all to things present. But there was a reason. Nothing merely happens; something is the cause. The things which pop into the head of a little child, not unlike the things which flash into ours, have had a source, even when we are unfamiliar with that source.

Minds Working Fast.

These little children's minds were working fast. The mother helped to keep them working. As she satisfied their curiosity they became more curious. They were getting intellectual training. No formal education will they ever get which will be nearly equal in value to their mental growth from this experience on the train with their mother. They were learning from the greatest teacher in the greatest school they will ever attend. And they didn't know they were learning. Perhaps the mother didn't. She was just being a good mother.

Her voice and face betrayed enjoyment and the children looked entirely satisfied. Her speech was beautiful, with clear, soft, mellow tones, most of which I could hear two chairs away, above the clatter of the speeding train. Each word was uttered distinctly and her English was the very best.

The train at last pulled into the station. As I neared the door, the mother was on her knees helping the smaller lad find a penny he had dropped, at the same time quietly answering his latest question.

What a wonderful mother that woman is!

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. The English of my 10-year-old boy is bad. He uses all the slang he hears on the radio and screen instead of what we try to teach him.

A. He is at the age when slang and bad grammar are very attractive to him. He talks as his playmates talk. Why not let him be himself? Anyway, the more you nag him about his English, the less he will want to employ better English. The bad English he uses grows more attractive the more you let it annoy you. Train yourself to show no vexation over it nor to rebuke or correct his speech. After you have thoroughly mastered yourself over a period of two weeks, you might properly choose, at a quiet moment, when you feel most lovely toward him, to ask him if he would not like to quit using a certain word that annoys you most. But your surest way to help him is to win his companionship and affection, always using accurate English yourself.

Q. I have not succeeded in the "training" of my baby, 14 months of age. I put her on the chair about every hour. Sometimes I catch her right, and then sometimes I don't.

A. You already are succeeding sometimes. Capitalize on these successes. Celebrate them with tender pats, smiles and approvals. Never even look annoyed when she fails. "Each victory will help you some others to win."

Q. My child, three years old, after being put to bed at night, will get up in the bed and shake it.

A. As you put him to bed tonight, tell him he must not get up. Say no more. Go to the hall where you can see him and he can't see you. The moment he rises bare his bottom and give him several good smacks low on his fat thighs. Silently tuck him in again and take your position and do as before. Continue without a single exception until he chooses to stay down. Be on hand for this every evening until the problem is settled permanently.

Q. If a young child asks a question about sex or makes an innocent remark about elimination functions when one has company, what should one do?

A. Calmly answer him and deal with him as if there were no company. Henceforth, try to get over to him that such matters as these we talk about or mention aloud only when we are alone in the family.

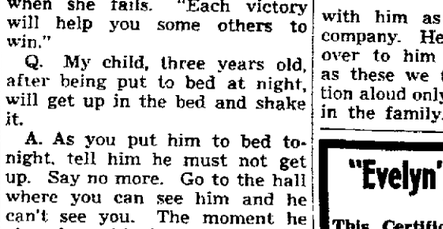
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

USUALLY, NOT ALWAYS

Leading trumps first is what a suit declarer generally should do. There are two principal reasons, however, why he should not lead them at the outset of certain hands, and other reasons at other times. The most frequent cause for postponement is the desire to use certain trumps for ruffing out losers or ruffing to set up a suit. The next most frequent is probably the desirability of discarding a loser or two before giving up the lead in trumps. Sometimes these are combined in one hand.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

That rather bold contract was thrown away by an inexperienced declarer in a social duplicate game. He won the club Q lead with the A, then led a spade to the J and A. East raked in both the A and Q of hearts, then led a spade to limit club ruffs. Thus the side took still another trick, since South could trump only one club and discard one on the diamonds when the finesse worked.

At another table 4-Spades went through successfully. After winning the club lead, South ruffed a club, returned to his hand with the diamond K, finessed the diamond J, led the diamond A and, when East ruffed high with the A, discarded a heart. East took the heart A, then led a trump, South winning. Declarer then led another club, ruffing with the J. This left him one club loser, which made only a third trick for the enemy.

Navy to Cost Billion a Year If Expansion Gets O K

HEAVY UPKEEP FOR LARGER FLEET CITED

Senate Committee Studying 11 Per Cent Increase House Approved.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, today asked the senate naval affairs committee to authorize the United States to build the world's largest navy. The construction he proposed would cost $3,486,000,000.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The navy told congress today that the United States would have a billion-a-year bill to maintain the fleet and its air arm at the expanded strength now contemplated.

The annual upkeep estimate of about $1,157,647,100 was submitted to the senate naval committee, which is studying the house-approved program for an 11 per cent increase in the fleet at a cost of about $655,000,000.

An even heavier maintenance bill was likely if cognres follows the recommendations of Admiral Harold R. Stark for a 25 per cent expansion of the fleet. The chief of naval operations held the bigger boost necessary to restore the country's 5-to-3 treaty ratio over Japan.

The 11 per cent fleet increase authorizes 43 additional ships and 1,011 planes, but does not set aside funds. Building costs, the navy pointed out, would have to be absorbed over several years.

Hit Canal Fund.

While the naval committee heard this testimony, other phases of the national defense problem drew senate attention.

The war department's request for funds to start work on a $277,000,000 set of bomb-proof locks for the Panama Canal drew the fire of senate economy advocates who contended that the army had failed to establish any need for the new locks.

At the same time the senate heard that the war deparement intended to request $6,000,000 to start immediate work on an air base at Anchorage, Alaska, and a cold-weather aviation experiment station at Fairbanks, Alaska.

In New York, the navy set June 13 for the launching of the $65,000,000 U. S. S. North Carolina—the first dreadnaught to be commissioned in 19 years.

Other assertions made by the navy today in reply to committee questions included:

American military secrets are not being released to belligerents.

It seems probable that 40,000 tons will be the minimum for future battleship construction.

The navy now has 1,780 useful planes on hand, 952 on order and 171 appropriated for.

Damages Denied Columbus Woman In Prosecution

COLUMBUS—(NS—Mrs. Sylvia Daugherty, former Columbus hotel hostess, now of Wheeling, W. Va., today had been denied damages in her $100,000 malicious prosecution suit against Harry S Day, former state treasurer.

A Franklin county Common Pleas jury reached its verdict after 12 minutes deliberation. Mrs. Daugherty, a widow, had sued Day and Raymond P. Martin, former assistant treasurer, charging they maliciously prosecuted her in May, 1935, by causing her arrest on a charge of receiving and concealing coupons from bonds which had been deposited with the state treasurer.

Mrs. Daugherty subsequently was indicted but the charge was later dismissed. Martin was dismissed as a defendant in the malicious prosecution suit by Judge Dana F. Reynolds Monday.

Up and Down THE STREET

One Mansfield census taker had a bit of work for nothing yesterday when he contacted a home on Diamond street extension. It was a good-sized family and there were lots of questions to be asked and answered. When he had finished he asked the woman of the house how far it was to the city corporation line. "Just west of us," she said, "we are the first house outside the corporation line." The census taker looked disgusted. "I'm sorry," he said, "but I've wasted my time and you'll have to go all through this again. I am not allowed to take the census outside the city."

Mansfield had two new state highway patrolmen today, but neither will ever do active duty, as both are honorary appointments. Appointments of patrolmen were conferred yesterday on Municipal Judge G. AUTO WORKERS HOLD ELECTION

Largest Vote in NLRB History Staged Today in General Motors Plants.

DETROIT — (U.P.) — The largest collective bargaining election of the National Labor Relations Board began today with four unions seeking bargaining rights in 61 plants of General Motors organization.

Approximately 135,000 workers in 11 states choose between the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations factions of the United Automobile Workers, and two AFL craft unions.

President John L. Lewis of the CIO and William Green of the AFL made pre-election speeches and both predicted overwhelming victories. Questions of "Communism" and "Americanism" and industrial versus craft unions predominated the campaigns.

Green, in a speech at Flint, one of the key centers of GM production, said Lewis was plotting a revolution and a dictatorship. UAW-CIO rallies predicted "doom" for the AFL.

UAW-CIO leaders promised workers that after the election, conferences would be demanded to open contract revision, including a general wage increase, an improved seniority system and recognition of the shop steward plan.

In a pre-election agreement with both factions of the UAW, General Motors promised that it would continue existing contracts regardless of the outcome of voting.

Employes vote during working hours in plants in Ohio, Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, Indiana, Georgia, Missouri, Maryland, New Jersey, Connecticut, and California. The ballots will be counted tomorrow.

EX-CONGRESSMAN PINCH-HITS AS ASHLAND SPEAKER GETS 'LOST'

ASHLAND — Former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster spoke at Jackson-Jefferson-Wilson Democratic club dinner here last night all because the scheduled speaker, Congressman Luther Patrick of Alabama, went to Ashland, Ky., instead of Ashland, O.

Patrick discovered his mistake just a few minutes before Ashlanders began arriving for the banquet. A telegram was dispatched to Ashland Democratic leaders and McSweeney, himself a congressional candidate, defended the New Deal and called President Roosevelt "the greatest humanitarian our government has ever had."

"Three issues confronting the people today are to keep out of any European wars, find employment for all men and adopt a sane attitude concerning the public debt," McSweeney said.

Those seeking the gubernatorial nomination spoke briefly.

Former Governor George White said: "I am not ashamed of anything I did during my administration. I tried to reduce the real estate taxes but there is still much to be done along that line."

William Kennedy of Cleveland, McSweeney was hurriedly placed at the speaker's table.

There was no shortage of speakers, however, since five Democratic aspirants were present to press their campaigns. More than 400 attended the dinner.

urged nomination of a candidate who can win in November. Frank Dye condemned the sales tax, calling it "a burden on the poor."

James Flynn ridiculed former Gov. Martin L. Davey in his efforts to limit Lake Erie fishing, and said if he was elected "there would be enough of everything for everybody."

Harold Mosier took a stand against the Communist party and said the country must be rid of it, beginning with taking the names of Communists off the ballot, and firing any and all school teachers who do not teach the American form of government.

Former Governor Davey was represented by Mrs. Anna Makely. Miss Anne Duffy represented her father, Herbert Duffy, also a candidate.

A resolution was passed in commemoration of the late Congressman William Ashbrook.

APPROVAL OF FARLEY SEEN BY ROOSEVELT

Friends of 'Big Jim' Insist President Still Plays 'Lone Hand.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt and Postmaster General James A. Farley together at the opening ball game attracted considered comment in political circles today.

Some quarters suggested that Big Jim, in common with certain other Democratic aspirants, had gotten an inferential green light from the White House to shoot for the 1940 presidential nomination without further thought of the third term issue.

However, friends of Farley, while pleased at what they regarded as a nice gesture, insisted the president was still playing a lone hand in the '40 campaign.

Keeps Silence.

In the latter thought, Farleyites were joined by members of the White House inner guard who continued to predict that Mr. Roosevelt will not break his silence on the third term until after the Republican convention in June and possibly not until the Democratic convention itself.

Those who sought to weave particular significance into the president's action in inviting his '32 and '36 campaign manager to such a favorable publicity spot as the opening ball game recalled that Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt had just gotten three weeks leave of absence to press his campaign for the nomination.

KEYNOTER PICKED

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Republican leaders hailed today as an accent on youth and "liberalism" the selection of Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts as keynote speaker and permanent chairman, respectively, of the party's national convention at Philadelphia June 24.

The choices, made by the arrangements committee in Philadelphia yesterday, are subject to approval by the convention itself, but a spokesman at party headquarters here said that would be a matter of course.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Backstage on Broadway.

"Higher and Higher" Highlights: Marguerite James, the beauty, and Louis Hightower, also of the cast, are yum, yum. . . . Rodgers and Hart were afraid they didn't have enough songs in the show, so they added one. It's called "Afraid." . . . The funniest ad libs have come from Jack Haley, who often has to come across with his own lines when he forgets those in the show.

The other night when Sharkey, the seal, got the wrong cue and sneaked up behind Haley, Jack asked Lee Dixon: 'Do you feel a draught that has halitosis? . . . He often forgets the words of "Life Liberty" and ad libs so much that he breaks up Shirley Ross so that she can hardly sing her second chorus. Once he was so surprised when he remembered all the lyrics that he went into a dance, which also broke up Miss Ross. Now she doesn't know what to expect.

Miriam Franklin, the dancer, was thrilled when they gave her one line, "No stay with us," to say. She practiced it in front of every mirror she passed. Then they cut it out of the show. Now she's sulking.

Marta Eggert is as popular with the cast as she is with the audiences. She goes bargain-hunting—comes backstage with a pair of $2.50 shoes, and coaxes all the other girls to get them, too. . . .

Leif Erickson, who wears handsomely-tailored tails in the show, offstage is seldom seen in anything more formal than a suede jacket. . . . Jack Haley is called "Chief" by the chorines because some fire company around Boston made him an honorary fire fighter.

The "Hellzapoppin" Gazette:

Benny Goodman's brother, Gene, and Kay Wilson are Cupid's latest victims—they look like good prospects for that halter at the altar. . . . Margie Young, one of the prettier belles, took another screen test last week.

She says if all her screen tests were laid end to end, the result would make "Gone With the Wind" look like a short subject.

Helen Felix, whose secret marriage to Sid Chatton, one of the Radio Rogues, was not so secretly annuled, is currently on the courtship list of a physician.

Olsen and Johnson have so many pals coming back to see them, they could use a dressing room something the size of Penn Station, instead of one the dimensions of a wardrobe trunk. The standing gag is that they get enough backstage visitors to keep a play running for a year.

Although the show is certainly the zaniest to hit Broadway in years, decorum runs rampant backstage. A practical joke, the well-behaved cast believes, is something for the other side of the curtain.

"Two for the Show" Shorts:

The show has been flattered to death by two famous figures of the theater. Katharine Cornell came, raved about it to Nancy Hamilton, and said it was the first musical she'd seen that made her want to do one. Then Cole Porter dropped by, raved about "Song of Spain," Brenda Forbes' "Infanta" number, and demanded a copy of it.

Dean Norton still refuses to tire of his pleasant chore of carrying his dream girl, Eunice Healey, up the stairs—a practice that grew from an emergency to an expression of amour . . . Betty Hutton turned down six or eight offers to "double" in night clubs, before accepting her current one at La Martinique. Her jitterbugging wears her out by the final curtain. . . .

"DuBarry Was a Lady" Dope Sheet.

Ronald Graham, the baritone, and Mary Brian, of the silent movies, are cutting up those old romantic touches. . . .

Hank Greenberg remade the Betty Allen romance team with that new bracelet. His picture is up again in her dressing room.

Betty Grable, the bowling champ, has a new favorite band—Glenn Miller's. It used to be You Know Who. . . . Adele Jergens has had quite a lineup in her engagement pad recently. Franchot Tone, Georgie Hale, and Burgess Meredith . . . Ethel Merman is getting all kinds of mash mail addressed to Madame DuBarry.

Marion Harvey was doing considerable worrying a few days ago over the fact that night after night she kept noticing the same fellow on the subway. He looked familiar, but she couldn't place him—until finally he came over and spoke to her and turned out to be her first sweetheart, wearing a mustache!

Gossip at "Leon and Eddies":"

Mary Mullen, who is sweet sixteen and has never met Georgie Jessel, has resigned as a member of the Alice Faye fan club since Alice divorced Tony.

She's so Tony Martin-minded the entire cast chipped in and bought her a batch of Tony's recordings for a birthday present. . . .

Joan Blaine, a tall, sophisticated blond in the line, roller skates to work every night to keep her figure streamlined. On nights when she has dates she walks out to the waiting limousine with her roller skates slung nonchalantly over her shoulder.

Paulette, of Paul and Paulette, is known to the rest of the show as "Character." She loves pulp magazines, and several months ago came across one which advertised a contraption which allegedly manufactures dimples. Paulette sent for one and has been using it ever since to coax dimples—in her knees!

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Most of the bright sayings of children in these parts come from Beverly Wills of Beverly Drive in Beverly Hills.

Beverly is 6, the daughter of Joan Davis and Si Wills. Beverly speaks her mind, which is extremely quotable. There was the day one of this region's rare electrical storms was popping, and Beverly inquired, "Mom, is God making flash-light pictures of us?"

There's the movie influence also in her delivery of her school report card with the glowing observation that "I got a good write-up at school."

As a critic, she spares no feelings. Once when Mom was working in a scene with Alice Faye, Beverly was asked whose performance she liked better, and Beverly answer was Alice Faye's. For Mom, however, she will go to bat when necessary.

"A lot of the kids at school," she told Joan one day, "are saying you're not as funny as you used to be. I told 'em! I told 'em you're not as young as you used to be, either!"

Jane Withers, 14 now, almost hits romance in her next one, "The Brat." But they've doctored the old play so the heroine does not get the man. Wonder whether the George Jessel romantic headlines will have any effect on these teen-age screen plays—revise them so the youngsters can get Jessels?

Two of the sweetest characters in recent screen albums figure as most memorable in two of the late films. Louis Hayward in et al, to acting in the new Jackie Cooper picture.

unseen Rebecca in "Rebecca." Virtue its own reward? Not in the movies.

Screen's champion challenge-finger: Henry Fonda. He blasted at war in the final scene of "Blockade," pleaded eloquently against exploitation of labor toward the end of "Grapes of Wrath."

Judith Barrett, after marrying Lin Howard, was through with pictures forever . . . Andrea Leeds, after marrying Lin's brother Bob, was through with pictures forever . . . Andrea is resuming her career—like most of the other brides who were through with pictures forever. . . . Wonder what Judith's next picture is?

Come-backs: Polly Moran to "Tom Brown's School Days," after retirement in Florida. Herbert Brenon, once great director, to head a local drama school. Bobby Breen, former boy lark, to studious silence, while his voice changes. Joan Crawford, to fine feathers, in "Susan and God." Fred Niblo, one-time director of Garbo, Gilbert, Roman Novarro,
